HOW MEN OF THE 89TH CAME INTO PORT AFTER RACE ACROSS ATLANTIC

Welcoming Craft, Circling Big Ships, Seem to Be Receiving the Ovation Instead of Cheering Soldiers on Decks of Leviathan and Imperator.

"EPIDEMIC OF CHEERS" AS THEY REACH DOCK

Incoming Vessels, Crowded With Yelling, Khaki-Clad Soldiers, Are Berthed on Opposite Sides of Same Pier.

By CLAIR KENAMORE, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The two biggest ships in the world pulled into opposite sides of the same pier yesterday afternoon to unload on their native soil the majority of the men of the Eighty-ninth Division.

The decks of both the Leviathan, which led the way, and the Imperator, which was but an hour behind, were crowded with the yelling men in khaki and the six welcoming craft which circled around the big ships themselves seemed to be receiving the ovation.

The Leviathan, which lately was the Vaterland, seemed to have an epidemic of cheers as she swung into the dock. Her tremendous power and momentum carried her past, as it customary, and a flock of tugs laid their noses against her and pushed powerfully to turn her into the slip. Of such great bulk is the former German liner that they looked like flies pestered by a bull, or like snow dogs snapping at the feet of an elephant.

As the boat drew near the wharf the faces at all the portholes could be seen. Usually there were two faces at each port, and as if to give a color scheme, in many of them one face would be that of an Indian. There are eight tiers of these ports, and the side of the great ship looks like the side of an eight-story building. But on up above the superstructure were gathered the men of the Westerners. Up the shrouds they went, they clustered along all the three funnels, each as big as the gas reservoir in a small city, and they crowded the crow's nests on both masts.

Souvenirs Won in Battle. As the ship crawled slowly along the wharf certain other facts were to be observed. The Kansans have added a small souvenir to the divisional insignia. Then most of the men wore German belt buckles, those ornate clasps known as "Gott mit uns," which are so prized as souvenirs. And the men of this regiment and of this division did not get the divisional insignia. They won them where they won their Croix de Guerre, and their D. S. S.'s, in Barri-court Wood and along the banks of the Meuse.

The band played "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and everybody cheered. The Kansas boat, flying its sunflower flag, ran in close to the Leviathan and blew its whistle and everybody cheered again. The Missouri boat, with Gen. Clark on the upper deck, circled and again everybody cheered. The Nebraska and the Colorado boats, too, were in the line. As the Leviathan came to a stop at 3 p. m. and the engines tightened the cables, the Imperator already was being turned around out in midstream. It was the first time, seafaring men say, that the sister ships have raced across the ocean, and the first time they have lain in the same harbor, to say nothing of being at the same pier.

On the Leviathan "ere the 353d and 355th Regiments of the Eighty-ninth Division complete, and Companies L and K and the medical detachment of the 354th. I probably have some sort of a momentary delusion, but I firmly believe that I am able to identify Missouri troops and to pick them out of a crowd. At any rate, it was no trouble to find the big, husky St. Louisans among the 12,000 soldiers the transport carried. They were as hard as oak and somewhat the same color as that wood when reddened by heavy weather. They swung their 65-pound packs to their backs and lined up with a great stamping of feet to march ashore. Once across the landing stage they formed in the immense shed of the pier, where a regiment might be maneuvered, and waited for their friends of the other companies of the regiment, whom they had not seen since leaving France, but who were pulling up on the other side in the Imperator.

89th's Brilliant Record; Won 200 Decorations

Maj. Masseck of St. Louis Writes Brief History of Division That Captured Stenay Morning of Armistice.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Maj. Clinton J. Masseck of the 353d Regiment, who left Washington University at St. Louis, where he was a professor, to enter the army, wrote a brief history of the 89th Division which was printed on the 17th Division. Under the caption, "Main Facts Concerning the 89th Division," he says: "Organized Aug. 25, 1917, Camp Funston, Kan., under Major-General Leonard Wood.

"Personal drawn from the States of Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and South Dakota, with later increments from Illinois and Wisconsin. "Sailed for France June, 1918. Trained until Aug. 4 in the Reynel Training Area. "Captured Six Towns. "In the trenches, Toul sector, Lucy sector, Aug. 7 to Sept. 12, 1918. One of the assaulting divisions of the Fourth Corps in the St. Mihiel drive, Sept. 12 to 15, advancing on that occasion on an average of 18 kilometers with an extreme penetration of 22 kilometers. Captured six towns, establishing itself immediately in front of the Hindenburg line. Extended its sector to the right and left to include the St. Benoit subsector and the Jaulny subsector. Held this line until Oct. 2. Famous for its aggressive, patriotic policy and the fierceness and intensity of its organized raids, taking many prisoners and losing but two to the Germans. Rated by the German Intelligence Section as a strong combat division. "Oct. 9 to 15 reserved to the First Army Argonne offensive. Oct. 15 to Nov. 1 held the Romagne sector immediately in front of the Kriemhilde-Stellung and was there subjected to a continuous bombardment of gas and high explosive; there conducting a brilliant minor operation by strengthening the line and cleaning up the strongly held Bois de Bantheville Oct. 2. Jumped off on Nov. 1 in the final phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, capturing the Barrois heights, the key to the river crossing of the Meuse at Pouilly and Stenay, and finally forcing the river on the night of Nov. 10-11, in two places and capturing the town of Stenay on the morning of the armistice.

"In both offensives the brunt of the attack was carried out by the 177th Infantry Brigade; however, the 178th Infantry Brigade distinguished itself brilliantly in the final phase of the Meuse-Argonne on the heights from Barrois to the Meuse, Nov. 5 to 11. "Football Team Champion. "The Eighty-ninth Division was a part of the army of occupation from Nov. 25 to May 8, occupying the so-called Eifel region between the Rhine and the Luxembourg border. There it distinguished itself for its smartness of appearance and careful administration of occupied territory and the fact that its football team won the championship of the entire American Expeditionary Forces.

"It passed in review before Gen. Pershing at Frier, Germany, April 23, 1919, and was warmly commended by the Commander-in-Chief. "Its total casualties number 7002. "Decorations: Congressional Medal of Honor, 8; Distinguished Service Cross, 115; Distinguished Service Medal, 2; Croix de Guerre, 69; Belgian Cross d'Ordre Leopold, 1; Belgian Croix de Guerre, 2; Legion d'Honneur, 5.

DAUES BIDS SELF OUT OF BREATH ON CITY JOB

Counselor Fails to Land Contract for Taking Down Unlucky Flag Pole on City Hall.

City Counselor Daves made a bid on a city contract yesterday afternoon, but he increased his bid so rapidly in spiral progression that he did not get the job. His bid started at $25 on the second floor of City Hall and kept going up until it reached $1000 20 feet from the top of the main spire, 80 feet above the roof.

Mayor Kiel, in a conversation with Daves and two newspaper reporters, mentioned the fact that many persons passing the Twelfth street front of the City Hall express surprise that there is no flag on the staff on the main tower, not knowing that the official city flagstaff is on the lawn between the City Hall and the Municipal Court Building on Market street.

Daves Bids $25 for Job. "That old staff on the tower ought to be taken down," said the Mayor, "so there will be no further misunderstanding. But it will be an awful job and will cost the city about $500." "What! $500," exclaimed Daves. "Ridiculous. I'd make a contract to take it down for $25." "Come on, let's see if you would," said the Mayor. "We'll go up there and take a look at it."

The Mayor led the way, followed by Daves, Harry Crutcher, secretary to the Mayor, and the two reporters. They took an elevator to the fourth floor. That was easy. "My bid is still $25," said Daves. "And then, like Childe Roland in the poem, Daves 'to the dauntless tower came.' It was a fearsome of the place with all the kinks in it. The Mayor was in the lead. After the party had gone round and round and gained only about 10 feet in the ascent, the Mayor's voice floated back: "What's the bid now, Charlie?" "I'll raise it to $100," replied the City Counselor.

Pole 19 Inches in Diameter. At the 20-foot level Daves' breath and the coming fast. He stopped to rest and raised the bid to $200. Further increases in various breathing spells carried the bid to $500 and the Mayor's voice floated back: "What's the bid now, Charlie?" "Not yet, Charlie," said the Mayor. "There's another serpentine staircase in the cupola before we get to the flagpole."

"Very well," said Daves. "I raise my bid $1000 and won't go a step further."

WEBSTER GROVES MAN CONVICTED IN 45 MINUTES BY JURY FOR HOLDING COLLATERAL ON NOTE.

Michael J. Hurley of Webster Groves, former secretary of the Southern Paint and Supply Co., was convicted by a jury in Judge Taylor's court this afternoon of a charge of embezzlement of 140 shares of the stock of the St. Louis Sanitary Street Cleaning Co., and a sentence of three years' imprisonment in the penitentiary was fixed. The jury was out 45 minutes.

Hurley's lawyers filed notice of an application for a new trial. Hurley was charged with retaining the stock, given him as collateral on a note by Charles Sutter of 4 North King's highway, after the amount of the note had been paid. Hurley's defense was that he had other claims against Sutter, who was his associate in the affairs of the street cleaning company, and that he acted on the advice of lawyers in retaining the stock. One of the lawyers, John F. Garner, former Mayor of Quinco, Ill., testified in support of his contention yesterday afternoon.

Hurley was sued, in 1912, by the Baroness Ursula Barbara von Kallnowski, as she styled herself in her petition, on an allegation of breach of promise, for $2500.000. The plaintiff, a young German woman, alleged that Hurley had become engaged to her in Paris. Her suit was later dropped.

ASSEMBLY ENDS WITH RESOLUTION ON IRISH QUESTION

Expresses Sympathy With Presbyterians of Ireland; Asks That They Be Considered at Paris if Subject Comes Up There.

FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN CHURCH AFFAIRS

Substitutes Minority for Majority Report, With Final Action Probable Next Year—Urges Advertising.

The 131st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., which had been in session in the Odeon since a week ago yesterday, adjourned today at 12:35 p. m., an advancement of the hour set, which was 5:30 p. m.

John Willis Baer, moderator, in a brief speech, thanked the ministers of the assembly in behalf of the elders for their action in electing a layman moderator for the first time in the history of the assembly. The closing prayer was offered by Dr. S. Hall Young of Alaska, whom Baer defeated.

Just previous to adjournment the assembly adopted a resolution on the Irish question, proposed by the Rev. Dr. Robert S. Inglis of Newark, N. J., which was, in part, as follows: "Whereas the Roman Catholic hierarchy, through its priests and bishops, has endeavored to bring about a resolution to the political independence of Ireland and the Presbyterians of Ulster have protested such independence as endangering their liberties and religion; and whereas the Roman Catholic Church has given opportunity for the expression of opinion, the General Assembly hereby declares its sympathies for the Presbyterians of Ireland."

The resolution further declared that if any consideration at the peace table was given to the Irish question, the assembly desired the American representatives to give the same consideration to Ulster as to other parts of Ireland. The assembly also took action favorable to women suffrage in church affairs, substituting a minority report of the Committee on Policy, which was favorable to the proposal to make women eligible to become ministers and elders, for an unfavorable majority report.

The committee was divided, 13 to postpone any action and 7 to refer to the committee for report to the next Assembly. Dr. S. Hall Young, chairman of the committee, lined up with the minority and was the leading speaker in behalf of the claims of women.

Indicates Favorable Attitude. His motion to put the matter in the hands of a committee of two ministers and two elders prevailed against motions to table, refer to the Executive Committee, or to submit to a referendum of presbyteries. The action, while not granting the women's rights at once, is viewed as registering the favor of the assembly for the proposal and insuring favorable action by the next assembly. Dr. Young's original motion provided for two women on the committee, but upon appeal to the stated clerk it was discovered that the constitution of the assembly prohibits anyone not eligible to be a commissioner to serve on committees. Women are not now eligible to be commissioners.

In opposing the suffrage of women in the church, the Rev. Alexander Mackie of Shaaron, Pa., declared: "We have enough members who are old women now and enough old men."

JOHNSON SPEAKS ON DEMAND FOR TEXT OF TREATY

Senator Calls Up for Consideration His Resolution Asking State Department for It.

OBJECTS IF WITHHELD BY AN AGREEMENT

Only Reason "That You Have Something to Conceal;" Sherman Offers Resolution to Take League From Treaty.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 23.—Senator Johnson, Republican, of California, called up for consideration in the Senate today his resolution asking the State Department to furnish the Senate the complete text of the peace treaty.

A resolution declaring it the sense of the Senate that the covenant of the League of Nations be separated from the peace treaty which it is submitted for ratification was introduced in the Senate today by Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois. Speaking in support of his resolution, Senator Johnson declared it should be "obvious to any man that the American Senate and people were entitled to full information about so important a matter. He pointed out that portions of the treaty had been published in Germany and that newspapers in some instances had published portions of the text.

Publication Agreement. When Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking member of the Foreign Relations Committee, interrupted to ask if there were not an agreement among all the peace delegates, Senator Johnson replied: "I do not know and I do not care," adding that such an agreement would have been unfair to the American people.

Sergeant Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, interjected that publication of the treaty might be defeated by an agreement made at Paris. "I do not know; I do not care," Senator Johnson replied. "If there was an agreement it was violated when a synopsis was given out. The only reason for not giving out the text is that you've something to conceal."

Hitchcock Replies. Senator Hitchcock replied to Senator Johnson's remarks that the resolution be referred to the committee. Hitchcock also regarded that the resolution violated procedure by calling upon the State Department instead of the president for the text. Discussing the President's constitutional power to negotiate treaties, Senator Hitchcock said the Senate never in 100 years had asked for a treaty before it was completed.

"The President has the power to sign a treaty," said Hitchcock, referring to the present treaty, "and never send it to the Senate."

Sherman Resolution. At Senator Sherman's request action on the resolution was deferred. Sherman had planned to deliver an address in opposition to the league covenant when he offered the resolution, but did not have opportunity to speak. He plans to call the resolution up later and to discuss the covenant at length.

Notice also was given today that Senators Reed, Missouri, and Robinson, Arkansas, both Democrats, would speak in the next session Monday. Senator Reed is expected to oppose the league plan and Senator Robinson to support it.

Sherman's resolution provided: Resolved, that it is the sense of the Senate that it is desirable that the treaty terminating the condition of war between the United States and the German Government be separated from the covenant of the League of Nations so that each may be acted upon by the Senate to their final disposition and a vote thereon ratifying or rejecting the same."

"WAR'S GREATEST HERO" AMONG TROOP ARRIVALS

Sergt. Alvin C. York of Pall Mall, Tenn., Is Met by Delegation From Home State at New York.

WILL BE GUEST AT BANQUET TONIGHT

Soldier, Leading 7 Men in Argonne, Killed 20 Germans and Captured 132—Once Called Objection.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 23.—Sergt. Alvin C. York of the 328th Infantry, who, the head of a detachment of seven men, killed 26 Germans, took 132 prisoners, including a Major and three Lieutenants, and put 36 machine guns out of operation, arrived here yesterday on the transport Ohioan, wearing the Congressional Medal of Honor and the French Croix de Guerre. York's home is in Pall Mall, Tenn., and he was greeted on his arrival by a committee from the Tennessee Society of New York, who propose to show him what the folks back home think of him during his four days' special furlough.

York won his honors in the Argonne drive last October. He was then a Corporal and was sent out with a detachment of 16 men under Sergt. Early to silence German machine gunners who were endeavoring to protect the advance of a German battalion. Early and seven of his men were almost immediately killed and York took command. He silenced machine gun after machine gun and when he returned with his prisoners the proposed German attack had ceased to be even a proposition.

To Be Guest at Banquet. York will be the guest of honor tonight at a banquet given by the Tennessee Society at which Major-General George S. Duncan, his former divisional commander, will speak. Another guest will be Joseph Cummings Chase, who painted a picture of York at the front, by order of the Government.

The Sergeant, who is an elder in the Church of Christ and Christian Union at Pall Mall, and was for a time listed as a conscientious objector, declared it was "the hand of God that guided us all and brought about the victory."

"I feel a heap stronger spiritually than when I went away," he said. "No man could pass through what I did without feeling that way."

York said he was considering entering the ministry, but had not yet determined on his future. "Conscientious Objector." Discussing the report that he was a conscientious objector, the Sergeant said: "I was out on the field when a letter was received from my pastor saying that I was a conscientious objector. I was not. I don't approve of taking human life unless it is necessary, but I considered it necessary when my Colonel and my Captain explained that the fight was for democracy, the peace of the world and for humanity. Then I determined to fight."

From the Waldorf-Astoria, where York was installed by his friends, he talked over the long-distance telephone with his mother in the little Pall Mall grocery store, five miles over the Kentucky border. After greeting her, he sent his love to his seven brothers and three sisters.

The first thing that met the eyes of the Tennessean when he was ushered into the room which had been prepared for him was a framed photograph of his mother on the bureau.

When he had finished the elaborate dinner spread for him in the great dining room of the Waldorf, Sergt. York announced with satisfaction: "That's the first square meal I have had in over a year and it sure did taste good."

York had little to say about the feat which won him the highest honor medal his country could bestow.

"I kept my automatic in my right hand all the time and my rifle in my left and kept on firing," he said.

$38,341 Has Been Raised for Fund for Welcoming Soldiers

THE Mayor's Welcome Home Committee, which undertook the task of raising $50,000 by subscription, to match the $50,000 appropriated by the city, to make a fund of $100,000 for welcoming St. Louis units on their return, had raised up to noon today, $38,341.15. Festus J. Wade is chairman of the subcommittee on finance.

The Relatives' Auxiliary of the Twelfth Engineers raised an independent fund of more than $10,000, and this was spent in such a way as to relieve the Mayor's committee of expense in connection with the welcoming of the Twelfth. For this reason, Secretary Weisenburger of the Mayor's committee said today, the committee considers the $10,000 to have been practically an addition to its fund, making the total raised by subscription more than $48,000. The auxiliary's fund was administered by that organization, not by the Mayor's committee.

The remaining expense will be in connection with the welcome of whatever units of the Eighty-ninth Division may be sent here, and with the Fourth of July celebration in Forest Park, which is to be in honor of all St. Louis men who were in the national service, regardless of units or branch of the service.

GERMANY TO PAY TO LIMIT OF CAPACITY, SAYS NOTE

Allies' Reply to Protest Against Economic Terms Is a Recital of Enemy's Wanton Destruction of Shipping and of French Mines.

Teuton Envoys Declared to Have Exaggerated Fears of Consequences and to Fail to Realize Their Responsibility for Woes.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, May 23.—Germany's economic status under the terms of the peace treaty is the result of her own behavior, particularly through the ruthless submarine warfare, the Allied and Associated Council informed Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau in answer to his note on the economic questions. The Allied answer, which was made public today, with the text of the German note, is negative. It points out that the German plea is exaggerated and ignores the fundamental considerations which led to the imposition of the terms.

The loss to world shipping through the German submarine campaign, it is declared in reply, was nearly 13,000,000 tons. The Allies propose to make Germany repay only 4,000,000 tons. Responsibility for this shortage in shipping is placed directly on Germany and the German share in replacing it is called "very moderate."

In answer to the German plea that Germany will be called upon to feed 67,000,000 persons, it is declared that the peace treaty takes 6,000,000 out of German control. It is added that German agriculture is in better shape than that of Poland, Belgium and Northern France where the fighting was heaviest.

Goods Can Be Imported.

The Germans complained that they would lose certain necessary commodities. The Allied reply is that Germany can import these goods. Germany, it is asserted, destroyed the Lens coal fields, and the coal fields taken from her in payment for the destruction wrought still leave her sufficient sources of fuel.

There will be every opportunity for Germany to make her position in the world both stable and prosperous. Germany, it is pointed out, has not suffered from pillage and devastation, and there will be a saving from reduction of armaments and the size of her army and in turn of the smaller population making population to works of peace.

The text of the reply to the German note by the allied and associated Powers, approved by the council on May 22, is as follows: "The allied and associated Powers have received and have given careful attention to the report of the German Government to examine the economic conditions of the treaty of peace."

"This report appears to them to contain a very inadequate presentation of the facts of the case, to be marked in part by great exaggeration and to ignore the fundamental considerations arising both out of the incident and the results of the war, which explain and justify the terms that it is sought to impose."

"The German note opens with the statement that the industrial resources of Germany were adequate before the war for the nourishment of a population of 67,000,000, and argues as though this were the total for which with diminished resources she will still be called upon to provide."

"This is not the case. The total population of Germany will be reduced by about 6,000,000 persons in the non-German territories which are proposed to transfer. It is the needs of this smaller population that we are called upon to consider."

Tonnage Left to Germany. "Complaint is made in the German note that Germany is required to surrender her merchant tonnage, excluding tonnage in the hands of neutrals, and that a prior claim is made on her building capacity for a limited term of years. No mention, however, is made of the fact that considerable portions of the smaller tonnage of Germany is left to her unimpaired; and it seems to have entirely escaped the notice of her spokesmen that the sacrifice of her larger shipping is the inevitable and necessary penalty imposed upon her for the ruthless campaign which, in defiance of all laws and precedent, she waged during the last two years of the war upon the mercantile shipping of the world. "As a partial offset against the 1,750,000 tons of shipping sunk, it is proposed to transfer 4,000,000 tons of German shipping. In other words, the shipping which it is proposed to take from Germany constitutes less than one-third of that which was thus wantonly destroyed.

"The universal shortage of merchant shipping is the result, not of the terms of peace, but of the action of Germany, and no surprise can reasonably be felt if she is called upon to bear a share—and it is a very moderate share—of a loss for which her own criminal deeds have been responsible.

"Great stress is laid on the proposal that on the eastern side Germany shall be deprived of the regions specially devoted to the production of wheat and potatoes. This is true. But the note falls altogether to observe that there is nothing in the peace treaty to prevent either the continued production of those commodities in the area in question, or their importation into Germany. On the contrary, the free admission of these products of the eastern side is provided for during a period of three years. Moreover, it is fortunate for Germany that those regions have lost none of their productivity owing to the ravages of war. They have escaped the shocking fate which was dealt out by the German armies to the corresponding territories in Belgium and France on the west, and Poland, Russia, Rumania and Serbia on the east. There appears to be no reason why their produce should not continue to find a market on German soil.

"Stress is laid upon the proposed restriction of the import of phosphates. It is, however, forgotten that Germany has never produced, but has always imported the phosphates of which she stands in need. Nor is there anything in the terms of peace which will prevent or hinder future importation of phosphates into Germany. Other countries which do not produce phosphates are also compelled to import them in common with many other products, and the only difference in the type situations will arise from the relative degree of wealth or impoverishment in the countries concerned.

"The German note makes special complaint of the deprivation of coal, and asserts that nearly one-third of the production of the existing coal mines will be lost. But it omits to notice that one-fourth of the pre-war consumption of German coal was in the territories which it now is proposed to transfer. Further, it fails to take into account the production of lignite, 80,000,000 tons of which were produced annually in Germany before the war, and none of which is derived from the transferred territory. Neither is any reference made to the fact that the output of coal in the non-transferred districts was rapidly increasing before the war, and that there is no reason to doubt that under proper management there will be a continuing increase in the future.

"But should not the coal situation be viewed from a different and wider standpoint? It cannot be forgotten that among the most serious crimes perpetrated by the German armies during the war was the almost complete destruction of the coal supplies of Northern France. An entire industry was obliterated with a consequent devastation and savagery which it will take many years to repair. The result has been a grave and prolonged shortage of coal in Western Europe. There can be no reason in doubt why the effect of this shortage should be borne exclusively by the allied nations who were its victims, or why Germany, who deliberately made herself responsible for the deficiency, should not, to full limit of her capacity, make it good.

"Stress is also laid on the hardships alleged to be inflicted on Germany by necessity of importing iron ores and zinc. It is not understood why Germany should be supposed to suffer from conditions to which other countries contentedly submit. It would appear to be a fundamental fallacy that the political control of a country is essential in order to produce a reasonable share of its products. Such a proposal finds no foundation in economic law or in history.

"The allied and associated Powers cannot accept the speculative estimate presented to them in the German note on the future condition of German industry, as a whole. This estimate appears to them to be characterized and vitiated by palpable exaggerations. No notice is taken of the fact that the economic disaster produced by the war was widespread, and, indeed, universal. Every country is called upon to suffer. There is no reason why Germany, which was responsible for the war, should not suffer also. Similarly as regards the population of the future, no reliance can be placed on the data which are contained in the German note. On the one hand, it is sought to prove

Text of German Protest Against Economic Terms

Declared That Conditions Mean Destruction of Part of Industry and Death Sentence for Millions of People.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 23.—The note from Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation at Versailles, regarding the economic effect of the peace treaty, dated at Versailles, May 13, was made public today. The note reads:

"Mr. President.—In conformity with my communication of the 9th inst., I have the honor to present to your excellency the report of the economic commission charged with the study of the effect of the conditions of peace on the situation of the German population.

"In the course of the last two generations Germany has become transformed from an agricultural state to an industrial state. As long as she was an agricultural state, Germany could feed 40,000,000 inhabitants. In her quality of an industrial state she could insure the nourishment of a population of 7,000,000. In 1913, the importation of foodstuffs amounted in round figures to 12,000,000 tons. Before the war a total of 15,000,000 of persons provided for their existence in Germany by foreign trade and by navigation, either in a direct or an indirect manner, by the use of foreign raw material.

"According to the conditions of the treaty of peace, Germany will surrender her merchant tonnage and ships in course of construction suitable for overseas trade. German shipbuilding yards will build for five years in the first instance tonnage destined for the allied and associated countries. Germany will, moreover, renounce her colonies, all her overseas possessions, all her interests and securities in the allied and associated countries and in their colonies. Germany will be obliged to make an installment of the payment for part of the reparation, be subject to liquidation, and may be exposed to any other economic war measure which the allied and associated Powers think fit to initiate or to take during the years of peace.

"By the putting into force of the territorial clauses of the treaty of peace Germany would lose to the east the most important regions for the production of corn and potatoes, which would be equivalent to the loss of 21 per cent of the total crop of those articles of food. Moreover, the intensity of our agricultural production would diminish, and the number of persons who could be fed on the one hand, the importation of certain raw material indispensable for the production of manure, such as phosphates, would be hindered; on the other hand, the industry would suffer like all other industries from lack of coal. The treaty of peace provides for the loss of almost a third of the production of our coal mines. Apart from this decrease we are forced for 10 years to deliver enormous consignments of coal to various allied countries.

"Moreover, in conformity with the treaty, Germany will concede to her neighbors nearly three-quarters of her mineral production and more than one-third of her coal production. That emigration from Germany will be necessary, but that few countries will receive the intending immigrants. On the other hand, it is sought to show that there will be a flood of Germans returning to their native land and live under the conditions which have already been described as intolerable. It would be unwise to attach too much weight to either speculation.

"Finally, the German note rashly asserts that the peace conditions will 'logically bring about the destruction' ('loss' in original), of several millions of persons in Germany. In addition to those who have perished in the war or who are alleged to have lost their lives in consequence of the blockade. Against the war losses of Germany might very fairly be placed the far greater losses which her ally and conduct of the war have inflicted upon the allied countries, and which have left an ineffaceable mark upon the manhood of Europe. On the other hand, the figures and the losses alleged to have been caused by the blockade are purely hypothetical. The German estimate of future losses could be accepted only if the premises upon which it is presumed to rest are accepted also. But they are entirely fallacious. There is not the slightest reason to than three-fifths of her zinc product.

"After this diminution of her products, after the economic depression caused by the loss of her colonies, of her merchant fleet, and of her possessions abroad, Germany would not be in a state to import from abroad a sufficient quantity of raw material. An enormous part of the German industry would be inevitably condemned to destruction. At the same time the necessity of importing foodstuffs would increase considerably, whilst the possibility of satisfying that demand would diminish in the same proportion.

"At the end of a very short time Germany would therefore not be in a position to give bread and work to her numerous millions of inhabitants, who would be reduced to earning their livelihood by navigation and by trade. Those persons would have to emigrate, but that is a material impossibility, all the more so because many countries, and the most important ones, will oppose any mass immigration. Moreover, hundreds of thousands of Germans expelled from the territories of the Powers at war with Germany, from the colonies and territories which Germany must surrender, will return to their native land.

"The putting into execution of the conditions of peace would therefore logically bring about the loss of millions of persons in Germany. This catastrophe would not be long in coming about, seeing that the health of the population has been broken down during the war by the blockade and the consequences of the privation of food. The privation by the aggravation of the blockade of famine. No help, however important or over however long a period it might be distributed, would prevent the inevitable consequences of the privation of food. The privation would impose on Germany numberless human sacrifices that this war of four years and a half did not demand of her people (1,750,000 killed, nearly 1,000,000 dead, victims of the blockade).

"We do not know, and, indeed, we doubt whether the delegates of the allied and associated Powers realize the inevitable consequences of the putting into force of the territorial clauses of the treaty of peace. An industrial state very thickly populated, closely bound up with the economic system of the world and reduced to the obligation to import enormous quantities of raw material and foodstuffs, suddenly finds herself pushed back in the phase of her development which would correspond to her economic conditions and the number of her population. There is no reason to doubt that this would be half a century ago. Those who will sign this treaty will sign the death sentence of many millions of German men, women and children.

"I thought it my duty before entering upon a discussion of other details of the treaty, to bring to the knowledge of the allied and associated delegations this summary estimate of the problem of the German population. I have at the disposal of my ex-collaborator statistical proofs of the above statements. I have the honor, etc. BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU."

believe that a population is destined to be permanently disabled because it will be called on in future to trade across its frontiers instead of producing what it requires from within. A country both can become and can continue to be a great manufacturing country without producing raw materials of its main industries. Such is the case, for instance, with Great Britain, which imports at least one-half of her food supplies and the great preponderance of her raw materials from abroad. There is no reason whatever why Germany under the new conditions should not build up for herself a position both of stability and prosperity in the European world. Her territories have suffered less than those of any other continental belligerent state during the war. Indeed, so far as pillage or devastation is concerned, they have not suffered at all. Their resources, including their resources, supplemented by the resources of the world, should be adequate for recovery and development.

"The German reply also ignores the immense relief that will be caused by her people in the struggle for recovery by the enforced reduction of her military armaments in the future. Hundreds of thousands of her inhabitants, who have hitherto been engaged either in training for armies or in producing instruments of destruction will henceforward be available for peaceful vocations and for increasing the industrial productivity of the nation. No result should be more satisfactory to the German people.

"But the first condition of any such recuperation would appear to be that Germany should recognize the facts of the present state of the world, and that she should accept the instrumental conditions which she cannot escape unscathed. The share which she is being called upon to bear of the enormous calamity that has befallen the world has been apportioned by the victorious Powers, not to her deserts, but solely to her ability to bear it.

"All the nations of Europe are suffering from losses and are bearing and will continue to bear burdens which are almost insupportable. They can carry. These burdens and losses have been forced upon them by the aggression of Germany. It is right that Germany, which is responsible for the origin of these calamities, should make them good to the utmost of her capacity. Her hardship will arise not from the conditions of peace, but from the acts of those who provoked and prolonged the war. Those who were responsible for the war cannot escape its just consequences."

GERMAN ENVOYS AT SPA TO REACH 'SERIOUS DECISION'

Paris Newspapers Believe Public Opinion Will Force Delegates to Attempt an Agreement.

PARIS, May 23.—Newspapers here believe the absence of Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau and other members of the German delegation, who departed yesterday for Spa, will be short. They may return Sunday. Some regard the departure of the Germans as a means of utilizing the delay in the peace negotiations granted by the peace conference on Wednesday. It is believed that the delegation will confer at Spa preparatory to making a serious decision. The Echo de Paris believes that the German leaders have taken a stand against signing the treaty, but that public opinion in Germany is against them and they will retreat and reach a position which will make an agreement with the allies more possible. All the newspapers consider that the departure of the chief of the German peace mission does not indicate a break between the allies and the Germans. The remaining delegates are proceeding with their work at Versailles as usual.

Modification of Terms. The Council of Four agreed yesterday on a reply to the German note concerning reparations. The note will be handed to the German plenipotentiaries at Versailles today and will outline some modifications in the terms regarding reparations as the peace treaty. This will be the first modification of the terms of the peace treaty as agreed upon by the plenipotentiaries. Consideration of Germany's protest regarding the reparations has resulted in slight modifications of the terms of the award.

Berlin dispatches received in Paris indicate that German opposition to the peace treaty centers chiefly about the reparations question. The plenipotentiaries at Versailles today and will outline some modifications in the terms regarding reparations as the peace treaty. This will be the first modification of the terms of the peace treaty as agreed upon by the plenipotentiaries. Consideration of Germany's protest regarding the reparations has resulted in slight modifications of the terms of the award.

The allied reply to the German note regarding the league of nations, which was delivered yesterday, says in general that the council considers that "the proposals for the covenant are much more practical than those of the German Government and better calculated to secure the objects of the league."

Regarding the suggestion of a separate mediation office, this is not considered feasible, since such a body would not have the requisite authority to maintain the peace of the world.

The German league of nations plan contains 65 clauses. It agrees in general with the conference covenant, but proposes a number of amendments, including compulsory arbitration, also an international parliament, both of which heretofore have been pronounced impracticable by the league of nations commission.

Military Terms for Austria. The Council of Four met this morning and discussed the military terms and clauses relative to prisoners of war, which will be incorporated in the treaty with Austria. Military experts attended the session. The American delegation to the peace conference is favorably inclined to a suggestion received in a letter from German Lt. Kleinsaat of Chicago, saying that a movement toward reconciliation between Germany and the United States is being made, and the Senate would adopt a resolution giving its interpretation of certain articles in the covenant of the league of nations. It is pointed out that the effect of such a resolution, would be to place on record the interpretation of the document upon which the Senate would base ratification of the covenant.

Premier Clemenceau has declined to comply with the demand from the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies for the communication of the full text of the peace treaty. He said the French Government had agreed with all the allied and associated Governments not to communicate the text of the treaty in advance of its signature to their respective Parliaments.

ORAL EXCHANGES ON TREATY WILL BE PERMITTED

Wilson Approves Plan for Meetings of Experts, Put Forward by French Who Desire to Bring Signature.

By HERBERT BAYARD SWOPE. A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, May 23.—Oral interchanges are to be permitted between the Germans and the allies. I am able to make this statement upon indisputable authority. It must not be taken to mean that the gates are to be thrown wide open for the formal debate of every possible point by full delegations, but there will be reasonable discussion of matters really essential.

The plan, which has been definitely approved by President Wilson and has been tacitly accepted by his associates of the Big Four, is to arrange for a series of meetings, ostensibly of experts of the various committees, who will exchange ideas on certain phases of the treaty. From this beginning there will be an expansion of subjects until all the essential matters in dispute will be reviewed.

This may not seem to be much of a variation from the announced program, but it really constitutes a radical departure, for up to this time there have been no meetings to discuss the points in dispute. The conferences that have been held having related to matters that arose before the treaty was submitted, such as the German payment for food, relaxation of the blockade, financial measures, the armistice and kindred matters.

Meetings of Experts. The new plan will bring together members of the allied and enemy delegations at what will be termed meetings of experts, at which efforts will be made to change the real or fancied German belief that the treaty was designed for the economic or political destruction of Germany.

In the beginning the meetings will be attended by persons associated from the American, French and British experts to meet enemy representatives. As the subjects develop and are extended a plenipotentiary or several will be present in person or by cable.

I am informed that the first suggestion for meetings came from the French, who do not relish the thought that Germany may refuse to sign the treaty. The Americans, however, delivered yesterday, said in general that the council considers that "the proposals for the covenant are much more practical than those of the German Government and better calculated to secure the objects of the league."

There was agreement on the plan for no oral discussions, in order to keep up the appearance of a dictated peace. The peace will still be dictated, for it is extremely unlikely there will be any changes of moment in the text of the terms. By the new plan, however, there will be clearer understanding of the situation and all doubts will be removed which otherwise the Germans might utilize for an excuse for a course that might better be avoided.

First German Victory. After a protracted session of the Big Four yesterday afternoon a conclusion was reached whereby the terms of government of the Saar Valley are to be modified in a manner favorable to Germany. The action represents the first victory of the German delegation, but is more apparent than real. My information is that, while the terms are to be altered, there will not be substantial changes in the basic principles, and the provision whereby the German flag comes down is to be enforced. However, the clauses are affected so that the German flag will be raised to be slight changes in certain of the reparations terms, but here again nothing violent is contemplated.

The day brought out a definite commitment on subject of the question of accepting the mandate for Turkey. It seems to be the sentiment that both houses of the Legislature have been tested and that sufficient encouragement has been received to warrant the submission of that proposal to Congress.

American officials here are not enthusiastic over the proposition and make no effort to conceal their belief that the country is better off without the League of Nations.

Sergt. York's Feat That Made Him Known as "War's Greatest Hero"

SERGENT A. YORK is credited with the most brilliant feat of individual intrepidity in the entire American Expeditionary Force. To him have been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross and the Congressional Medal of Honor, the latter, the highest American military decoration, by the personal recommendation of Gen. Pershing. He also has the French Croix de Guerre.

On the morning of Oct. 8, last, Corp. York, as he then was, went out with a party to outflank a nest of German machine guns. Encountering some 30 Germans, the Americans killed some, and the others surrendered. German machine gunners opened up indiscriminately, killing six of their own men and wounding all the Americans save York and seven others.

From this moment on the battle was York's alone, for the others were guarding the prisoners. A champion marksmen in a mountain country where every man is an expert with the rifle, he proceeded to pick off one German after another. He killed 13 Germans and killed 11 men. Made desperate by such shooting, a German Lieutenant and seven men sprang from cover and charged down upon the marksmen. They had only 20 yards to come, downhill at that, but York, with his automatic pistol, killed every one of them before they could reach him.

Among the prisoners was a German Major. Appalled by such shooting, he implored York to cease, promising to persuade the Germans to surrender. They did, to the number of about 90. Escorting his drove of prisoners back, York flushed several other machine gun crews, who also threw up their hands. In the American lines he obtained a receipt showing that he had turned over 132 German prisoners, including a Major and three Lieutenants.

Gen. Pershing's cable recommendation, which was approved by the War Department, is as follows:

It is recommended that the medal of honor be awarded to Corp. Alvin C. York, Company G, 328th Infantry, for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Chateau-Chierry, France, Oct. 8, 1918.

"After his platoon had suffered heavy casualties, Corp. York assumed command. Fearlessly leading seven men he charged with great daring a machine gun nest which was pouring deadly and incessant fire upon his platoon. In this heroic feat the machine gun nest was taken together with four officers, 128 men and several guns."

A new burden of attempting to keep life in a dying nation, which is the cockpit of European quarrels and ambitions. Under the conditions controlling the German extension of time, it is probable that the Teutons will be allowed 15 days more for their oral interchanges, to begin today. The extension of time which has been granted for fresh notes will enable the Germans to tabulate and reduce to final form their requirements in regard to supplies and their suggestions as to means of paying for the same, a subject of importance to America and the allies.

German Reply to Terms Will Be in Five Sections. By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Wednesday, May 21.—German reply to the allied peace terms will be in five sections dealing with political and territorial issues, the league of nations, and financial and economic questions.

The notes already transmitted to the allied and associated Powers, the Germans believe, will afford a basis for negotiations on some of these questions and also may serve as suggesting a way over obstacles in the way of negotiations on the peace treaty.

KAHN TO DEMAND WITHDRAWAL SOON OF OUR ENTIRE ARMY

Congressman to Speak in House on Two Months' Investigation of Conditions Abroad.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 23.—Early withdrawal of the entire American army from Europe will be demanded by Representative Kahn of California, chairman of the House Military Committee, when he speaks before the House on his two months' investigation of conditions in the A. E. F. Kahn returned to Washington today and immediately began organizing the committee.

A peace-time army of 100,000 men and universal military training will be among the things recommended by Chairman Kahn. He announced that he would endeavor to have both adopted during the present session of Congress.

American troops, Kahn said, liked neither French nor British troops, and he reiterated there was no doubt both the latter were beaten when the American army stepped in.

Chairman Kahn announced he would press for the publication of the full terms of the peace treaty at once. The published summary, he declared, was far different than the treaty itself and he predicted that the American people would "receive a great many surprises when they study it carefully."

INDEPENDENT COMPANY RESUMES BEER MAKING

Follows Lead of Eastern Breweries—Controls Five Plants in St. Louis.

Manufacture of beer has been resumed by the Independent Breweries Co., controlling five St. Louis breweries, the American, Columbia, National, East St. Louis, Empire.

Hugo A. Koehler, president, who asked about a report that beer was being made in at least four of the company's plants, referred a Post-Dispatch reporter to John T. Fitzsimmons, one of the attorneys of the company, who gave out the following written statement:

Acting upon the advice of counsel, namely Messrs. Elihu Root, William D. Guthrie, William L. Marbury, Charles A. Houts and myself, the Independent Breweries Company has resumed the brewing of beer, retaining not to exceed 2.75 per cent of alcohol by weight. This beer we assert, upon the authority of a number of scientific men who have investigated the product, and also upon common experience, is not intoxicating. United States Judge Augustus N. Hand of New York, in his ruling made last Saturday in the case of Jacob Hoffmann Brewing Company against the Federal authorities in New York, held that the Food Sanitation Act, approved Nov. 21, 1914, merely prohibited the manufacture of intoxicating beer. Therefore, under this interpretation of the "Age" and upon evidence that this beer is not intoxicating, we deem ourselves to be within the law.

"The Independent Breweries Co. has decided upon this course as the only one short of discontinuing its business. Its stock is being sold, exhausted. Unless brewing is resumed, its business would soon have to top, its plants completely shut down, the men laid off, the organization disrupted and customers left without supply to continue their business.

"The officers of the company also believe that it is their duty not to abandon the business of the company, and thereby jeopardize the rights of the stockholders and bondholders of the company."

GETS DIVORCE FROM WIFE WHO RAN AWAY WITH "HUMAN FLY"

Belleville Man Tells How She Disappeared After Seeing Other in Exhibition of Daring.

Gustav Schopp was given a divorce in the Belleville Circuit Court yesterday because his wife ran away with a "human fly." He told Judge Gresham that after the "fly" came to Belleville and gave exhibitions of daring, at Belleville's one skyscraper, what lost interest in her husband.

After a while she disappeared, he learned that she had gone with the "human fly" to Chicago. She was found out that a house-climber was a poor substitute for a husband who stayed on the ground. It was too easy for him to get away. She wrote to Schopp that the "fly" had moved again, without taking her along, and she wanted to come back to Schopp and Belleville. But he was unfeeling.

The house-climber was known as Belleville as Rex Casey, but that supposed to be only his "fly" name.

FIGHT ON PENROSE BY PROGRESSIVES HAS COLLAPSED

Borah and Johnson Unable to Defeat Pennsylvania for Chairman of Senate Finance Committee.

DEMOCRATS GLAD TO HAVE HIM IN POST

Republican Leaders Oppose Changes Now, Desire to Present United Front in 1920 Campaign.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—What promised to be a real fight between Progressives and Conservatives in the Republican party has collapsed. Senator Penrose will be chairman of the Finance Committee after all. And the reason for the collapse is simply mathematical; there are more conservatives than progressives. Every fight at this time would simply divide the party and play into the hands of the common enemy—the Democrats.

Senators Borah and Johnson have been leading the fight and when it comes to a "show-down" they may not be for Penrose but that would not affect the final tally because, while the Republicans have only a majority of two with which to organize the Senate, there will be enough Democratic Senators away from Washington to give the Republicans a clear field to do as they please with committee selections.

And, besides, the Democrats have no wish to spoil the plan to make Mr. Penrose chairman of anything. They believe Mr. Penrose constitutes the best issue they can possibly have for the charge that they intend making in the next campaign concerning the influence in control of the Republican party.

The Republican leaders have taken all that into consideration but they would rather take their chances on the impression which a united party can make for Penrose than on legislation which is based on the past, not the present.

In other words, the men who are most anxious for Republican success in 1920 and to recognize that, politically speaking, Penrose might be something of a handicap, are not all-ungrateful to the progressives for stirring up a fuss. For they regard it as a necessary, indeed, as a kind of "show-down" party itself. The Republican party is not a united party. It is a collection of all sorts of sections of the country and the leaders here know full well that both Senators Borah and Johnson reflect a considerable public sentiment in their own sections. But in important committees, however, it is that same public sentiment is strong enough to warrant a clean break in the Republican party and end the party's chances of success in 1920 is quite another question.

The problem as it would be put up to the average Westerner is this: "Eastern Republicans want Penrose to stick to him. As a divided party, we can win no chance in 1920. United, we can win. But there is plenty of time to liberalize the party when we get possession of all branches of the Government."

Discharged Fighters Applying for Jobs at Demobilization Bureau

It is good there will not be much in the argument that Senator Penrose was chairman of a Senate committee. If it is a bad record, the Republicans will have to shoulder responsibility for the whole business any way.

The same kind of a fight was started in 1912 just after President Wilson was elected. Senator Simmons and other conservative Democrats were objected to by the progressives in the Democratic party. Mr. Simmons was accused of voting with the Republicans on the lumber schedule in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. But in the interest of the party harmony, Mr. Wilson believed it would be best to work with men like Simmons who were familiar with tariff legislation. He himself expected to exercise a supervising eye on such matters and prevent any protectionist from interfering with the passage of a lower tariff. But it turned out that Senator Simmons was one of the few Democrats who schedule in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law. But in the interest of the party harmony, Mr. Wilson believed it would be best to work with men like Simmons who were familiar with tariff legislation. He himself expected to exercise a supervising eye on such matters and prevent any protectionist from interfering with the passage of a lower tariff. But it turned out that Senator Simmons was one of the few Democrats who schedule in the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

Senator Penrose has the same chance to serve his party by giving up his personal views if a majority of his colleagues in conference decide against such proposals as he may make. The future, not the past, will determine whether Penrose has seen the signs of the times. Evidently the leaders of the party think he has. Hence their readiness to stick by him. The answer will be known when Congress gets busy.

33 YEARS IN FIRE DEPARTMENT

William H. Conners, 72 years old, of 6434 Virginia avenue, who for 33 years was in the Fire Department, died yesterday at his home. His health had been declining for two years. Members of the Fire Department will be pallbearers at the funeral.

Born in Ireland, Conners came to St. Louis when a boy and entered the Fire Department in 1871, with Truck Company No. 1, at Seventh and Olive streets. He rose to the rank of Captain of Hook and Ladder Company No. 11, in Carondelet, from which he was relieved at his own request in 1904 and assigned as watchman at the House of Correction, from which he later retired. He was a veteran of the Civil War.

UNITS OF THE 89TH TO DECIDE WHERE THEY WILL PARADE

Principle of Self-Determination Being Applied, War Department Informs Welcome Committee.

FIVE REGIMENTS MAY MARCH HERE

354th Infantry Expected to Come, and Possibly 355th and 356th, and 341st and 342nd Field Artillery.

The principle of self-determination is being applied to the units of the Eighty-ninth Division, to determine where the parades of those units shall be held. This was the substance of a message received today by the Mayor's Welcome Committee from Adjutant-General Kerr of the War Department, in reply to messages urging that the 354th Infantry and certain other units be assigned definitely to St. Louis, so that preparations for a parade here can begin.

Gen. Kerr telegraphed that the composition of each of the units was being carefully checked up by a canvass of the men of each unit, that the parade assignments would be in accordance with the results of this checking, and that the units would be notified as early as possible for the parade assignments.

Request for Five Units.

The committee believes that this will mean that the 354th Infantry will come here, and possibly also the 355th and 356th, and the 341st and 342nd Field Artillery. The argument for assigning all these units to St. Louis was contained in a telegram which the committee sent to Senator Spencer, the St. Louis Congressman and to Breckinridge Long, former Gov. of Missouri and James G. Smith, also in Washington. The telegram, in part, was:

"The 354th Infantry is composed especially of St. Louis men. The 355th and 356th Infantry and also 341st and 342nd Field Artillery also contain St. Louisians, and we are given to understand that in the main, these contain, if not a large number of St. Louisians, a majority of Missourians, whose relatives have the same desire to see their boys in parade if assigned to St. Louis."

Relatives Are Anxious.

"The uncertainty as to their parading here is causing extreme anxiety among the relatives of almost all the units. The units are distributed throughout the Eighty-ninth Division, and inasmuch as the big homecoming welcomes for the volunteer men have been immense successes, it would be unfortunate, almost disastrous, if the drafted men were not equally honored, and unless we can get this apportionment from the War Department this will be impossible."

It is our understanding that such a request for the units assigned to Camp Funston, Pike, Dodge, will be permitted to parade in St. Louis. The feeling of anxiety is so acute among a large number of our citizens that this indefinite postponement of the parade is causing them to feel that they are asking you to use your good offices and influence immediately with the War Department or such other agencies as you consider effective to get as many units of the Eighty-ninth as possible to St. Louis, and to have this done immediately."

BISHOP GREER FUNERAL SIMPLE

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 23.—Funeral services for the Right Rev. David Hummel Greer, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York, were held this morning in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. The service was marked by extreme simplicity, the occasion bringing together a great company of distinguished men and women. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. E. Briggs Nash of the Cathedral staff.

Six hundred persons were in the procession to the cathedral previous to the ceremonies and included a score of bishops and four hundred clergy, bishops of the Eastern Orthodox Church, clergymen of Protestant denominations and the honorary pallbearers. The body was placed in the vault, which has been built in the crypt beneath the cathedral.

SEAPLANE CRUISED THROUGH THE NIGHT INTO A PROMISING DAWN AND THEN CAME FOG

Voyage Began Above Icebergs Resembling Gigantic Tombstones and Ended on Rough Sea With Rescue by Passing Ship

The Post-Dispatch continues today its exclusive publication of the personal narratives of the commanders of the United States Navy's transatlantic seaplanes. Today's installment gives a vivid picture of the flight of the NC-1 from Newfoundland to the time it came to grief in the rough seas off the Azores. It was written exclusively for the Post-Dispatch by Lieutenant-Commander Bellinger, who commanded the plane, and was cabled by him to the Post-Dispatch from the Azores. It is a fine description of the part played in the great adventure by the NC-1.

By Lieut.-Commander Patrick N. L. Bellinger, Commanding the NC-1.

HORTA, Azores, Thursday, May 23.

A 22:10 Greenwich civil time (6:10 p. m. New York time) the NC-1 left the water and took up her position in the formation of the NC-3 and NC-4, bound for the Azores, to land at Horta, or Ponta Delgada, depending on the gasoline consumption.

The NC-1 got away with difficulty due to the heavy load she carried. Finally, after a long run on the surface, she reached plane speed and hopped off. The Three and Four were far ahead. We could just make out the number "1" at the distance. When night came we lost sight of the other plane entirely.

No. 1 station showed up on the port side. It made us feel good to see our solid friend below us while we were passing over an array of icebergs which resembled gigantic tombstones. The course we followed took us over one iceberg just at dusk. Our altitude then was 1000 feet, which gave us room to spare.

The other station ships, placed 50 miles apart, we passed in their regular order, some on one side and some on the other. We found that star shells fired by the station ship were visible for a much greater distance than were the rays of the searchlights. On one occasion two ships were visible to us at the same time.

Partially Clear Moon Rose.

The night was well on before the moon rose, and we wondered whether the sky would prove to be clear or overcast. Luckily it was a partially clear moon that rose clear and full, and though passing clouds sometimes obscured it, the sky could always be sufficiently defined to be of inestimable aid to the pilots controlling the plane.

We flew along at an altitude of 1200 feet and got the air drift during the night from the dropping flares, sighting on them with the drift indicator. The air was slightly lumpy through the night. A station ship full in the rays of the moon was almost passed without being seen by us. Then it occurred to us that we were not to attract our attention.

Nobody on board the NC-1 slept during the entire flight. The time passed very quickly and we found the work of watching for the station ships and checking the air drift very interesting. Hot coffee and sandwiches were available for all hands throughout the flight.

Finally the glow of the dawn appeared in the east. The sun rose. The motors were hitting beautifully and we were making a good 70 miles per hour. Everybody was feeling fine and confident that nothing could stop us making Ponta Delgada.

Thick Overcast Patches.

But soon we began to encounter thick overcast patches and the visibility became poor. As we went through one thick stretch station ship No. 16 looked dead ahead of us. Some of the station ships radioed weather reports to us. We passed No. 17 on the port hand, at a distance of 12 miles at 10:04 (6:04 New York time), and shortly thereafter, while we were flying at an altitude of 600 feet, we ran into a thick fog.

The pilots climbed to get above the fog, for it was very dense and bedimed their goggles and the glass over the instruments, very quickly. It was almost impossible to read the instruments. Pilots Barin and Mischler did excellent work and brought the plane to an altitude of 3000 feet, well above the fog. For a while there the sight was a beautiful one, but none of us could appreciate it. We could not see the water through the fog and we could not determine how far we were drifting.

We dodged some fog, but soon encountered more. We continued on, side-slipping and turning in an effort to keep on our course, until 12:30 (8:30 New York time), when we decided to come down near the water and get our bearings, intending then to fly underneath the fog. We came down to an altitude of about 75 feet. The visibility there was about half a mile. The air was bumpy and the wind shifted from 350 to 290 magnetic.

Ran Into Fog and Landed.

We closed our course to conform with the new conditions and sent out radio signals requesting compass bearings by wireless. We decided to land if the fog thickened. A few minutes thereafter

CARTRIDGES FOUND IN REDDISH'S ROOM

They Fit Weapon for Which Accused Physician Had Pawn-Ticket When Arrested.

A box containing 21 cartridges of .38 caliber were found by Sheriff Charles Catt of Jersey County today in a dresser drawer in the room formerly occupied by Dr. Stephen A. Reddish at the home of his father, Stephen M. Reddish, who was found shot to death there, April 30.

Dr. Reddish, who is held on the charge of murdering his father and Rachel Clisco, a negro servant, was told of the finding of the cartridges and admitted they were his property. When told that 21 cartridges were found, he said:

"There ought to have been about 30."

The cartridges were in a box which when filled would contain 50. They were of the same caliber and the bullets were of the same blunt-nosed type as bullets which were taken from the negro servant's body. No bullets were removed from Stephen M. Reddish's body.

Some of the cartridges were tried in the revolver for which Dr. Reddish had a pawn ticket when he was arrested and they would fit to fit this weapon.

Dr. Reddish had said he sold the revolver and afterwards by a strange coincidence found the pawn ticket. He was asked today why, if his statement was true, he did not sell the cartridges when he sold the revolver. "I did not have the cartridges with me at the time," he said.

FRISCO ANNOUNCES CHANGES IN SERVICE TO CUBA. MO-

Local Train Will Be Discontinued but Through Trains Will Make Stops.

Following the report of the Survey Committee of the general committee representing users of the Frisco Railroad, the Santa Fe, certain additional service for commuters and nearby shippers.

Arrangement has been made by Alexander Hilton, traffic manager of the Frisco, whereby the Cuba train will be discontinued, service being given in place of it by having through trains make local stops. In place of the inbound train arriving at Union Station from Cuba at 1:15 a. m., the Meteor will stop at all points between Cuba and Valley Park, arriving in St. Louis at 8:50 a. m. There is a Valley Park local arriving at 8:45 a. m. The outbound Cuba train, which formerly left at 4:20 p. m., will be taken off, but the Southwest Limited, leaving at 8:30 p. m., will do local work from Valley Park to Cuba. All the changes will take effect June 1.

The Pacific train arriving at Union Station at 7:30 will be continued, but will leave at 5:24 p. m. instead of 6:32 p. m., as heretofore. A Valley Park train will leave at 6:32 in place of it.

The Frisco agreed also to put on a Pacific train to leave Union Station daily about 9:30 a. m. and return at 1:20 p. m. dredge was towed out. It had been deepening the berth for the ship, which had not been here for more than four years.

That ship, which had lost the transatlantic race by a figurative nose, was just as noisy as the winner. The men did not care whether they had won or lost a race, or whether there had been a race. The matter of first importance was that they were home again. They had seen the Statue of Liberty. A gray mass looking through the fog was reported to be that statue. It looked like it was going to rain pretty soon, but what did they care? They stood on the deck or poked their heads out of portholes and yelled. Men were perched perilously in the crannies along the high steel wall which is the side of the ship, in niches at the end of lifeboats and over the lookout stations. They were everywhere a man could stand, and they were yelling.

Except that the Leviathan is all in dirty black, and the Imperator's superstructure is painted white, the ships look just alike, and the crowds yelled like twin crowds.

So far as my observation has gone, no outfit has shown more joy at being home again than these midwesterners, and especially the St. Louisans of the 354th Regiment. The young lieutenants, many of them now company commanders, tried to take it calmly in the military manner, but they did not do it well. For they were back in America, and mighty glad of it.

They exulted and gloated that they were done with St. Mihiel, with Barri-court, Woods, and heights, with Banterville and Stenay and Kyllburg and Trier. Done with France and Germany and back home. They had come straight from Germany. Some of them had not been in Great Britain for the way home. They left the occupied zone, beat it across France and piled onto the two biggest ships in the world and streaked across the Atlantic in a race. It was just about as near right as it possibly could be.

Watched for Seaplanes.

Lieut. John R. Thomas of 8 Lewis place said that since the transatlantic airplane flights commenced, the men had spent all possible time on deck trying to see one of the gallant fliers, but all in vain. That was the only thing which marred the voyage.

Lieut. J. H. Topton of 8 Lewis place said that the men were in better shape physically than they ever had been, and that this excellence and the military smartness had greatly impressed Gen. Pershing in a recent review at Trier.

The Commander in Chief is reported to have said: "This is the best set up, best polished, smartest outfit in the army of occupation." Gen. Winn, commander of the division, was not on either of the boats, as his affairs had kept him in Paris after the sailing date. Neither did Col. J. H. C. Lee, the chief of staff, accompany the division across. It is probable that they will come with the artillery.

The 354th Regiment was under command of Lieutenant-Colonel T. L. Crystal of New York City, a regular army officer, who was in the aviation service and not with the Eighty-ninth in the fighting. He joined them after the armistice and went with them into Germany. His view has been unbiased by association with the regiment in battle, and ought to be fair and impartial. He says that the regiment is the coolest considered opinion the best he ever has seen and he believes it is the best in the world. That is going pretty strong for a regular army officer who has seen most of our regular regiments in France.

Wanted to Bring "Singing" Cannon. The Headquarters Company wanted badly to bring their one-pound cannon back with them, but regulations stepped on the scheme. "There were two marks of enemy bullets on the piece, and it is the general belief that it had done more execution than any other one-pounder in France. In both the St. Mihiel and the Argonne-Meuse battles it was used in the front line, against machine gun nests, and toward the end of the war so expert and accurate had the men become with it that they sniped with it at long range.

Barri-court Wood and Barri-court Heights are the words to conjure with in the regiment and even in the division. It was G and H companies which took the heights the first of November, and when they came back there were less than 80 men to a company, and only one officer left to each company. That was where Maj. Merton T. Jones won his promotion.

Lieut. Oscar H. Trumpeter led the fighting against the woods, and there it was that E Company got its dose and came out with 35 men.

The companies were filled up with replacements, mostly from the same territory as the original men, and a sort of local association has been maintained. M Company, for instance, which is one of the best in the regiment, is called Eggar's Bats, because of the section of St. Louis from which most of its men come.

Capt. Manton Davis of St. Louis did not return with the regiment. He has been made a superior court judge, with jurisdiction in civil affairs, and will remain for a while with the army of occupation. He is now on the staff of the third army.

Lieut. Page Lewis, St. Louis football player, was on neither of the boats which arrived today. He is with the artillery and doubtless will come with that section.

Regiment Not in Full Strength. The regiment was not full strength, as Capt. F. N. W. Weeks, the Personnel Adjutant, explained, because of transfers of men to strengthen other regiments and because it was not thought necessary to take on replacements just on the eve of sailing for home. There were 367 men of the 354th Regiment on the Leviathan and 2081 on the Imperator, a total of 2448.

The Leviathan carried a total of 11,958 men, while the Imperator had but 2190. Capt. Anton Fahley, the Regimental Adjutant, was on the Imperator.

Col. Babcock who commanded the regiment in action, was transferred to general headquarters before the regiment sailed and is still in France. After the ships had landed, orders for the troops to go to Camp Merritt were changed and they were sent to Camp Upton on Long Island. The stay there is likely to be short.

Among others on the steamer Sautelle to meet the Eighty-ninth Division was the Missouri committee: Gen. Harvey C. Clark, Adjutant-General; Col. A. Linckler, Chief of Staff; Lieutenant-Governor Wallace Crossley, Senator William Bowker, Nevada, chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs; Representative Frank H. Hopkins, Rockport, chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs; Senator O. S. Harrison, Kennett; Senator Michael Kinney, St. Louis; Senator Thomas J. Lysaght, St. Joseph; Representative A. J. Speer, Greenfield; Representative W. O. Dixon, Anderson; Representative J. G. Morgan, Unionville; Representative Julius A. Razovsky, St. Louis; Representative Wallace W. Green, Kansas City; Dr. Homer E. Bailey, St. Louis, of Relatives Auxiliary; Judge F. A. Wind, St. Louis, of Relatives' Auxiliary; F. C. Marqua, Kansas City, chairman, Reception Committee; George Harrington and Mrs. Harrington, Kansas City; H. I. Sifers, Kansas City; Mrs. Harvey O. Clark, Jefferson City; Mrs. William Bowker and daughter, Mary Frances, aged 5, Sedalia; Mrs. H. H. McCluer, Kansas City, chairman Women's Auxiliary; Mrs. George P. White, Kansas City, chairman, Publicity Committee.

Major-General Leonard Wood, now in command of the Central Department of the army, with headquarters at Chicago, came to Manhattan and passed a short time at the Harvard Club.

"I am in New York to meet the Eighty-ninth Division," said Gen. Wood. "It was my old division which I organized and trained and was in command of until it reached the port of embarkation. The division is returning with a record second to none. The people of the States from which it was drawn can well be very proud of it. It has always been on time and has never failed to take its objective. It has been characterized by a high spirit of service, its discipline has been excellent—in other words, it has been an organization and not an aggregation. I am very proud of it and have followed its record abroad with the keenest interest."

Gov. Allen of Kansas was present with a large party, as was Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska with another party, and a noisy delegation from Colorado.

Major-General Leonard Wood, who trained the division in Camp Funston, also came down to meet the men he used to command.

"I have always been opposed to war as a matter of instinct and training. I am now more than ever opposed to it as a matter of experience." So declared Rev. Judson E. Woods, pastor of the London Heights Baptist Church in Kansas City, chaplain of the 354th Infantry.

Historians Omit the Horrors. "All of the histories tell more of war than of peaceful development, and they glorify war. They tell of its heroism, of its triumphs, but they never draw the picture of its horrors. Yes, I know the tales of the ancient wars tell how the conqueror of a city put all the inhabitants to the sword; but for some reason or another that has always seemed to glide off the picture in contrast with the halo of glory that went to the victor. I realize, too, that our people cannot visualize the horrors of the war we have just passed through, but if the soldiers as a rule come home soberer men than they went away, as they do, there is ample reason for it. Of course if it should come again, I would go again, but God grant there shall be no occasion for it."

Dr. Woods had little to say of his own achievements, but Capt. F. C. Stann of the medical corps, who was standing close by, filled in the gap and told of the calm courage with which Dr. Woods had taken out his burial parties and in the face of hostile fire had given the victims of war's blood-glutty reverent burial.

"Of one thing in that connection, I rejoiced," interposed Dr. Woods. "I never lost a man from a burial squad. Our escape was not due to any humanitarianism on the part of the enemy. I remember one time in particular, we were burying some of our dead, and they sniped us. They knew what our work was, they knew that it was a function which brings a halt in the steps and in the thought of everyone who has felt the influence of civilization, but in this war nothing seemed to be sacred to them. They fired seven shells at our party. Two went just beyond us and five fell short."

Capt. Stann is a dentist by profession, but his main work in the grueling months in which the Eighty-ninth was in action was in giving first aid to the wounded out in the advance positions. He was wounded once—gassed—at Edgellville, and was in the hospital 30 days. He got back in action Nov. 8 and was in the tail end of the frightful battle of the Argonne-Meuse. His experience in dentistry had made him expert in anesthesia, and one of his main duties was the administration of morphine by hypodermic syringe to the mangled. With all the experience of blood and horror behind him, he seemed to rather cringe from the memory indicated in his words:

"When a man had a leg or two legs blown off by a shell, it was almost certain he would die, anyhow, and the morphine injection was a blessing in relieving him of that last suffering."

Companies K and L of the 354th came in on the gigantic Leviathan, which docked about half an hour before the Imperator on the opposite side of the pier. The ordinance company and some of the medical corps were also aboard, but they were less than a handful among the 12,000 or so men that made up the ship's company. There may be more impressive and more moving sights than watching the great Leviathan, in a shroud of mist and rain from a water level fog, emerging, carrying 12,000 homecoming soldiers, not of fortune nor of desire, but of duty, but if such there be they don't happen around New York.

Jeane Funk, a Coloradoan who drifted into the 354th, is a modest hero. He has a Distinguished Service Medal and so has Charles S. Barger of St. Louis, Kan. Both are members of L Company. When pressed for a reason why they were decorated, Soldier Funk replied:

"Gen. Pershing decorated us for passing through the delousing plant at Brest, and believe me, anyone who goes through that process is entitled to a medal." In the end he was willing to say that "Oh, we rescued some officers out there and that was all that could be got out of him."

When the Armistice Came. Sergt. L. Vinick of Kansas City is as high a type of soldier as one could find: clean-cut, educated, of a high intelligence, he is capable of giving a history of the movements of his regiment that would be worth the reading.

"We left here on the Arcadius," he said, under British auspices and "now" come home under the flag of the good old U. S. A. We were over there a year, lacking 12 days, and missed our second service stripe by that margin." (An officer later stated the men would get it.) "Our fighting was continuous from Aug. 9 to Nov. 11. From Aug. 9 to Sept. 11 we were in the Lucey sector (Toul), from Sept. 12 to Sept. 16 in the hardest part of the St. Mihiel drive, where we suffered great casualties; from Sept. 16 to Oct. 8 in the Duverzian sector and from then until Nov. 11 in the Argonne-Meuse drive."

"Yes," interposed Soldier Funk, "and if the armistice hadn't gone just then there wouldn't be many of us left. Our job had been laid out for us. We had crossed the Meuse and had to climb the heights at 11 o'clock, the hour the armistice went into effect, and believe me, it would have been a man's job. One of our men named Hoster was wounded by a stray shell that came over at 11:15."

In the time between Oct. 8 and Nov. 11, against the bitterest opposition the Germans could concentrate, these unprofessional soldiers advanced 39 kilometers through a terrain which in all previous time military experts had decided impossible to carry against opposition.

Sergt. Forster of D Company, 354th Regiment, got the Congressional Medal for capturing six machine gun operators, after having killed a few others with a solo bayonet charge. Barri-court was the scene of his achievement.

A Victory Arch Suggestion. H. C. Harrison of 1281 Oak Court, St. Louis, came home as captain of F Company, 354th Infantry, made up it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.
You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—ADV.

mainly of Kansas troops. Other St.
Louis officers in the Kansas contingents were Lieut. John C. Madden, G. Company, 355th Infantry, formerly of the St. Louis Republic; Maj.
Masseak of the 353d, a former professor at Washington University, and First Lieut. Gallanekamp, C. Company, 353d Infantry.

Any city that is looking for a design for a victory arch to commemorate the heroism of its sons need not go very far for an impressive design. All they need do is copy the bridge of the Leviathan, one of the richest material prizes this country got out of the war.

If anyone in St. Louis is particularly opposed to the idea of a parade of the returning heroes, he can find all the encouragement he needs from the said heroes. "Let us drop these packs and get into our clothes again
—that's all."

With all its dimensional grandeur, the Leviathan was not one, two, ten with the Emperor as an alluring sea bus. The reason why is that the Leviathan has been here since the beginning of the war and was early converted into a transport by a man who never contemplated such a thing as a fat soldier. If a fat man had to sleep in one of the bunks, or hammocks, as they are technically known, provided for the soldiers, he would have to bear the weight of the man above him on the point of his greatest altitude (recumbent), presuming he could fit in at all.

The Emperor, on the other hand, has been wet nursed in a safe, if insane, German harbor since the beginning of the war and is still the same dandy liner she was in 1914.
The dirtiest spot on the Emperor when she had discharged her human cargo was cleaner than the cleanest on the Leviathan. This condition, however, will not be repeated, for the Emperor is to be amputated and splinted and bandaged by the shipyard surgeons so she will carry almost as many men as the Leviathan. It looks like an unnecessary sacrifice, but as against the quick return of the American boys still in Europe, everything is justified.

GIRLS AND WOMEN REPORTED EXECUTED IN BUDA PEST

Former Locksmith, 22, Presides Over Tribunal Condemning "Revolutionaries" to Death.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, Thursday, May 22.—
Many persons accused of being counter revolutionaries are being executed in Buda Pest by the Hungarian communist, according to dispatches received here. The victims usually are shot in front of the Hungarian parliament house in the day time or in the public school yard in the Mar-ketstrasse at night.

Among those who are said to have been executed are Herr Holan, manager of the Kaschau-Oderberg;
Bishop Balthasar, a hostage from Debrecen, and Col. Dermany of the general staff who was taken from a hospital. Several girls, who were accused of making tri-color rosettes for the counter revolutionists, also were executed. The presiding judge of the Revolutionary tribunal which orders the executions, it is said, is a former locksmith 22 years old. Many bodies of men and women and girls of the better classes have been found on the shores of Islands in the Danube below the city. It is reported they were arrested in the residential quarter of Buda and were thrown into the Danube by guards who were taking them to prisons in Pest.

Men's Suits That Are Distinctive

If we say that our Men's Suits are distinctive, we say the same thing that thousands of other clothiers have said. It is a word that is much overwrought and in most cases means nothing. But we mean a lot when we say that

Kuppenheimer Suits

are "distinctive." We mean that they have elements of style, definite refinements of tailoring and precise fabric qualities that distinguish them from other clothes—characteristics that set the precedence for clothing value.

Kuppenheimer clothes have those distinctive qualities of fine wear that impart their

POLICEMEN CHASING ROBBER SHOTS NEGRO

He Denies He Is One Seen Beating Visitor at Tenth and Walnut About 1 A. M.

In a chase after a negro highwayman whom they had seen beat and rob a white man near Tenth and Walnut streets at 1 a. m. today, Patrolmen Rawlings and Brown shot and seriously wounded William Nesbitt, 38, a negro, 1403 Clark avenue. Nesbitt, taken to the city hospital with a bullet wound in the back, said he had been mistaken for someone else and denied the robbery.

The white man was Alonzo Pidcock, 47 years old, a stranger in the city. He said he had met a negro near Union Station and had inquired where he could get a room for the night. The negro, he said, offered to guide him to a place. Near Tenth and Walnut streets, he said, the negro suddenly turned on him, hit him on the head and took $10 from him.

The policemen arrived about that time and the negro fled. Pidcock said the negro failed to obtain $1.90 he had in another pocket.

Pidcock could not tell whether Nesbitt was the negro who robbed him.

Man Robbed of Overcoat.
When police took charge of Edward McCauley, 34, living at Grant's Farm on the Gravois road, at Fifteenth and Market streets, early yesterday and placed him in the inebriate ward, he had $87.87, the remainder of $90 he had obtained through the sale of a $100 Liberty Bond for $75 and $25 in War Savings Stamps for $15.

He was released at 9 a. m. yesterday, given his money and started home. At 6 o'clock last night police again found him near Fourteenth and Market streets. He had $1.53 left. He said he had been hit on the head by two men and robbed. He was taken back to the inebriate ward.

Russell A. Dooley, 4555 Clarence avenue, on his way home at 1 a. m. today, was stopped by three men who drove up to the curb in an automobile near Holly and Florissant avenues. One pointed a revolver while the two others searched him and took $12 and his watch. They were about to get back in the machine when one of the robbers took a fancy to the overcoat Dooley was wearing and demanded it. The trio jumped back in the machine and drove away.

Former Soldier Loses $98.
John Black, McAllister, Ok., a discharged soldier, told police last night how he had befriended another discharged soldier he had met on the street and how he had bought him supper and taken him to his room at the Lone Star Hotel, Ninth and Pine streets, for the night. When Black awoke after a short nap the stranger and $98 was gone, he said.

When Mrs. Yvette Goodwin, 5244 Garfield avenue, left her home for 15 minutes yesterday afternoon to chat with a neighbor, burglars broke into the house and stole $95 and jewelry valued at $75. As she was returning Mrs. Goodwin saw three men run out a rear door.

A burglar in the home of Mrs. Caroline Schroeder, 2235 Gravois avenue, during her absence yesterday stole $65, a note for $400 and discharge papers belonging to her son, Charles Bottger, now serving with the A. E. F. in France. The papers were for a prior enlistment.

Burglars broke into the home of Neil Burke, 4139 North Camelia avenue, and Mrs. Kate Burns, 3226 Vista avenue, stole clothing and trinkets valued at $100 from each place.

Negro Fires on Policeman.
Mrs. Frank Kleih, 3166 Lamar avenue, asked police to investigate the theft of $195 in War Savings Stamps from a desk in her apartment yesterday. She caused the arrest of a man on suspicion, saying she had given him $200 in Liberty bonds 10 days ago to pay a bill on an automobile for her and he had discharged that mission faithfully. At that time, however, she said, he had seen her examining the stamps in the desk. The man denied any knowledge of the theft.

Three young girls rushed up to Patrolman Godfrey at Sarah and Gratiot streets at 10 o'clock last night and asked for protection from a negro who, they said, had followed them for some distance, making insulting remarks. They pointed out a negro a short distance from the corner.

The negro fled and when half a block away turned and fired two shots at the policeman. Godfrey returned the shots and both emptied their pistols without effect. The negro escaped, the girls disappeared.

BOY SHOT EXAMINING RIFLE
Harold Andrews, 8 Years Old, at Hospital in Serious Condition.

Harold Andrews, 8 years old, of 4202 Page boulevard, was shot through the right chest at 7 p. m. yesterday while two companions were examining a rifle that they did not know was loaded, on the porch of a residence at 1219 Whittier street. He was taken to the city hospital in a serious condition.

TO KILLED IN STARCH FACTORY EXPLOSION

Believed Several of 14 Now in Cedar Rapids Hospitals Will Die; Seven Missing.

By the Associated Press.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Io., May 23.—The dead in the Douglas starch works explosion of last night now number nine. The injured in hospitals number 14, and it is believed many of them will die. Scores of them were injured. Scores were removed to the hospitals. Firemen and policemen worked on the fire and at rescue all night. A heavy rain set in shortly before daylight and the flames were under control by 7 o'clock. Coroner King announced that he would summon a jury immediately and begin an investigation. At the plant officials advance no theory as to the cause of the explosion but workmen insist it was caused by dust.

Fire consumed the starch works ruins. The loss is put at $3,000,000 to the Douglas plant in addition to damage to other property over a radius of more than a mile. There were 106 employees in the factory when the explosion occurred at 6:30 o'clock, a few minutes after the day force of 400 had left for home. In addition to the theory of mill dust the engineer of the plant believes his boiler exploded. The manager

Envoy Refers to Efforts to Show
Discord as Misleading Senate.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 23.—The American colony, represented by 200 members of the American club, welcomed the new American Ambassador, Hugh C. Wallace, at a luncheon yesterday. The Ambassador's speech was a tribute to the American women during the war. "When history tells the tale of American devotion to France at the beginning of the war," he said, "our women will be placed first. Those who were here pointed the way to their sisters at home."

Henry White, one of the American peace delegates, referred to efforts by certain journalists "to represent discord as existing between the United States and France, thus risking misleading the Senate before the treaty comes before it."

Text of German and Allied Notes on War Prisoners

Latter to-Treat Men With Full Consideration of Feelings and Needs—Attitude in Case of Crime.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 23.—The following correspondence between the allied peace delegates and the German peace delegates has just been made public:

"Prisoners of war, letter from Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau to M. Clemenceau:

"German peace delegation, Versailles, May 10, 1919. Sir: The German delegation has noted with satisfaction that the draft treaty handed to it recognizes the principle that the repatriation of German prisoners of war and German civilians interned is to be effected with the greatest possible rapidity.

"It is in accordance with the opinion of the German peace delegation that the task of settling the details of the execution of that repatriation should be entrusted to a special commission. Direct conversations between the commissions of nearly all belligerent states in regard to prisoners have been shown to be the best means of solving the difficulties and it ought to be all the easier at the present moment to clear up by early discussion in a commission the divergences of view or doubts in regard to certain points.

"The German peace delegation, having in mind the difference of opinion in the various countries, concerned, is of the opinion for instance, that it is indispensable for prisoners of war and interned civilians, who have been detained for offenses other than those against discipline, to be repatriated unconditionally. Germany recognized this same principle as regards the prisoners of war and interned civilians of the allied and associated Powers detained in Germany.

"In the view of the German peace delegation certain allegations should be a matter of course and for reasons of equity, be agreed to in favor of prisoners of war and interned civilians for the period which will elapse until their final departure.

Restoration of Property.
"The German peace delegation has, moreover, been compelled to note that the arrangements contemplated are favorable only to the allied and associated Governments, for instance, so far as concerns the restoration of private property, the search of persons who have disappeared and the care to be taken of graves. The German peace delegation presumes that, for questions such as these, complete reciprocity may be required for general reasons of humanity.

"Because of the great technical difficulty of repatriating prisoners of war and interned civilians, especially in view of the shortage of tonnage and the lack of coal, the greatest importance should be attached to finding a solution of all preliminary questions before the dispatch of the repatriated prisoners and interned civilians actually begins. For that reason the German peace delegation proposes that the commission should start its deliberations forthwith separately from all other questions.

"The explanation of this proposal lies, firstly, in the fact that there are thousands of German prisoners of war and interned civilians in overseas countries, but the German delegation is likewise thinking of the Germans who are in Siberia and whose dispatch seems to be a question not only of special urgency, but of extraordinary difficulty.

Transport Problem.
"The German delegation for reasons of internal policy regards it of the utmost importance that the German prisoners of war and interned civilians should be returned to their homes in as normal a condition as possible, in order that they might there be brought back as rapidly as possible into the economic life of the country. That only appears possible—the precise settlement of transport problems apart—if everything possible is done to improve the mental and physical state of those who are returning home.

"Having regard to the present situation in respect to economic existence in Germany, it must be admitted that Germany is unable to do with her own resources everything required in order to secure that end. This refers, especially to food and clothing; therefore the German delegation thinks it desirable that the deliberations of the commission should likewise include an examination of the question of the manner in which the allied and associated Governments might assist Germany in the solution of these problems.

"The question arises, for instance, of supplying against repayment complete sets of clothing, underclothing and civilian clothing and footwear for the prisoners before their dispatch.

"I avail myself, etc., etc.,
"BROCKDORFF-RANTZAU."

Reply of Clemenceau.

Text of the reply approved by the council of the principal allied and associated Powers to the letter from Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, dated May 10, 1919:

"PARIS, May 22, 1919.
"Sir: The representatives of the allied and associated Powers have given consideration to the repatriation of the German prisoners of war. In reply they wish to state that they cannot agree that prisoners of war and civilian prisoners who have been guilty of crimes or penal offenses should be released. These crimes and penal offenses have been committed on allied soil and have been dealt with by the legally constituted authorities without reference to the fact that the wrongdoer was a German, rather than an allied citizen.

"For instance, a certain German prisoner broke at night into the house of a farmer, on whose estate he was set to work, and murdered the farmer and his wife in cold blood, with a bill hook. For this double murder the said prisoner was sentenced to death on June 11, 1918, by a regularly constituted court-martial. Under the Berne convention, however, the execution of the sentence is suspended.

"Justice would certainly not be satisfied if, as a consequence of the treaty, this murderer was reprieved. The allied and associated Powers are not aware of what alleviation it is possible to make, seeing that they have scrupulously endeavored to observe both the laws of war and the dictates of humanity in the treatment which they have given to prisoners of war, and that, as provided in the last section of article 218 it is essential that prisoners of war and interned civilians should remain subject to discipline and control pending their repatriation, in the interests of all concerned.

"The German peace delegation may rest assured that it is the in-

65 Aliens Are Graduated in Class in Citizenship

60 Men and Five Women Recite "Americans' Creed" and Sing "Star-Spangled Banner" in Exercises at Central High School.

I BELIEVE in the United States of America as a Government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies.

Sixty men and five women, all aliens, recited this "Americans' Creed" in widely varying foreign accents at Central High School last night in the first graduation exercises of their kind ever held in St. Louis, when they received diplomas which certified that they had acquired the educational qualifications for American citizenship.

To attain this goal the members of the class, all working men and women, attended night classes for several months at the Central, McKinley, Soldan and Yeatman high schools, and at the Central and Franklin elementary schools. The instruction was given with the co-operation of the United States Naturalization Service. M. R. Bevington, chief naturalization examiner, addressing the graduates before distributing the diplomas, said that so far as he knew St. Louis was the first large city which had undertaken to educate aliens for citizenship.

Holders of the diplomas will not be required to take any further examination as to their qualifications before obtaining their naturalization papers. A majority of the class members had their first papers before taking the night school courses and their applications for final papers are pending. Bevington last night said most of them would have been naturalized by this time, but for the recent illness of Judge Dyer of the United States District Court.

Germans, Austrians and Hungarians predominated in the class, but there also were Polish, Italian, Lithuanian and Irish graduates. When the night classes started many who attended then could speak no English. Last night they repeated the "Creed" without hesitation and sang the "Star-Spangled Banner" with fine spirit and sincerity. Their comprehension of the language was shown by the promptness with which they applauded all telling points in the speeches.

Classes to Continue.

The auditorium was filled with relatives and friends of the class members and all took a lively interest in the program, which, though the first of its kind, will not be the last, as citizenship classes for aliens will henceforth be an established feature of St. Louis' educational system. In this special course the pupils not only learn the language of their adopted country, but its system and method of government.

T. E. Spencer, supervisor of educational extension, introduced Dr. John W. Withers, superintendent of instruction in the public schools, who made an address on the privileges and duties of citizenship. He made it clear to the class members that while the United States was giving them citizenship, it expected them to give in return all that was best in the traditions and racial powers and achievements of the older nations from which they had come.

Oscar Leonard, superintendent of the Jewish Alliance, told what it means to be an American citizen. He was particularly qualified to speak on this subject, he said, as he also was a citizen by naturalization. He told of conditions in his native Rumania, where he was not permitted to go to a public school because he was a Jew, though his father and grandfather were born there and paid taxes.

W. D. Vandiver, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, in charge of the St. Louis Subtreasury, made a patriotic address in which he urged the prospective new citizens to appreciate their rights and to safeguard them by becoming voters and taking an interest in politics.

Mrs. Charles McClure Clark spoke of the prospect of universal woman suffrage and of the recent enactment of a Missouri law permitting women to vote at presidential elections. She urged the women in the class to make good use of their citizenship.

Women Missionaries Relate Their Experiences

Presbyterian Who Has Lived in Canton for 20 Years Tells of Hardships of Chinese Women—Persia Not Altogether as Picture by Poet.

MARGUERITE MARTIN, a part of the world has much to learn of modes of life among peoples in other lands returned foreign missionaries. The Presbyterian General Assembly here this week. And all their experiences, accepted by them as matters of course, are a revelation anew of long years of life in exile. There are several among them and their cheerfulness and hopefulness are ever remarkable in the light of conditions they have lived under, as they devote themselves to the progress of their work and each one expects to return to her charge.

There is Mrs. H. W. Boyd, who has lived 20 years in China, where her husband is eye specialist at Canton Union Missionary Hospital. In 1900 Mrs. Boyd had a family of four children, and in 1919 she has 13 down to a boy of whom are with them at the meetings.

All these Chinese. Their eldest son is a student in school at Canton. At least, American association and where he will remain when the family returns to China in September.

Life in Canton.

"We live in Southern China, which is the most progressive part of the country," said Mrs. Boyd. "In Canton we have department stores with elevator service and lots of revolutions. The missionaries are accused of stirring up revolutions, but they really are due to the fact that the southern coast is infested with brigands and pirates who get into politics and the Government, and that Chinese youths from this district go out into the world, become enlightened, return and are intolerant of conditions. We lived through the Boxer revolution and in successive local battles we had our house partly demolished by shrapnel shells. We don't know what sort of Government we may find when we get back, owing to the threatened Japanese trouble."

"The fault of the Chinese," continued Mrs. Boyd, "is that they are extremely materialistic people. But they are capable of rising above materialism when they become Christians. An example of this was an official who corresponds to our Speaker of the House of Representatives, who being a Christian, refused to accept a bribe of $50,000 to restore the privilege of gambling after it had been abolished. He retired and went back into a humble post in the ministry. The evils of gambling, slavery and opium have been questions of contention, always being abolished and reinstated. Other officials of this same administration also refused the bribe and retired. The fact that they were all Christians who did this was made much of by the newspapers at the time, and the triumph of Christianity over bad government was gratefully acknowledged by the populace."

Change in Women's Position.

"Another Governor adopted the same commendable attitude toward gambling and he was invited to attend a feast. In the midst of the ceremonies there came an order, declared at Peking afterward, when it was too late, to be bogus, demanding his execution. Upon this precedent an invitation to a feast is accepted by a high official as a signal for his retirement. So, you see, a public official does not dare be too good in Canton."

"But we are not discouraged," added Mrs. Boyd, cheerily. "In our residence we have seen many changes for the better as things move in the Orient. Where Robert Morrison 100 years ago was hunted and killed, there now stands as a memorial to the missionary as fine a building as I have seen anywhere. We have seen the position of women vastly improved. The Chinese, with his sense of the material, is made to see the advantage of having women educated. An educated daughter brings in a larger return than did an uneducated one sold in the market as in the old days. A girl educated as a physician may be employed as private physician in a wealthy family where she may have only occasional work to do, and receive $1000 a year. Village elders get together in counsel and employ a native woman physician to treat the native women. Indeed, so great has become the Chinese regard for western medical skill that they do not even require that their women be treated only by women doctors, but will let them come to the hospital and be treated by male physicians."

Practical Education.

"And the education of girls is becoming more and more practical. Work always has been considered degrading by the Chinese, but experiments in requiring girls to learn to do domestic tasks are meeting with success in our schools and it is hoped will tend to make for democracy and equality as well as encourage a higher regard for physical exercise. Our sports are something the Chinese cannot understand. They say 'Why dance, when you can hire somebody to dance for you? Why play tennis, if you can hire somebody to play for you? Why row if you can hire somebody to row for you?' But in our schools we now have girls' basket ball teams and other healthful sports."

Industrial and economic conditions in China were deplored by the missionary. "With two-thirds of the population it is a question where their next meal is coming from," she said. "Men, women and little children work from sunrise to sunset in the silk mills and other industries for 5 cents a day. And they have no recourse in the government, nor have we in their behalf. There are labor organizations called guilds, among the merchants and skilled artisans, and they have great power when employed in boycotting wares from other countries and keeping prices up, but they never reach down to help the under laborers."

Those of us who get our impression of Persia from Omar Khayyam and other poets, from gorgeous rugs, silks, jewels, perfumes and such associations, have another impression coming to us from Mrs. Dwight M. Donaldson, who has but recently returned from that country.

Experiences in Persia.

With her husband and but two other missionaries, Mrs. Donaldson has been for some years residing at the only Christian mission in the "sacred city" of Mashed, East Persia. During the war they lived under the successive occupation by the Russians and the Turks. When at last the British army came they made a trek of 1800 miles, 500 on camel back in the wake of the troops. They experienced with the natives the hardships of famine and epidemic and left one of their number dead of typhus.

"Our work was among the Persian Mohammedans," said Mrs. Donaldson, "and unlike the Turks, they are pitiable, down-trodden people, under the heel of the priesthood and rich land owners, who, for the most part are the same, the laws being made and administered by the priests and much of the land owned by them, also."

"The shrine at Mashed is a mecca for 100,000 pilgrims yearly and it is flagrantly a commercial enterprise. It is supposed to be a healing shrine, but the miraculous cures who advertise it are only hired impersonators. The shrine is immensely rich from offerings, sacrifices and legacies from the faithful who would buy their way into the next world. It has a gold dome, not a gilded dome, but a gold metal dome, which can be seen in the sun for 15 miles. The priests are canny in their investments and they own most of the land in and about the city. A great source of their income is from the opium trade. While people were starving during the war, all their irrigated fields were planted in poppies instead of wheat."

Strange Laws for Girls.

"The curse of Islam, though, is the lack of home life," she declared. "Women are kept in degradation at the mercy of strange laws dealt out swiftly by capricious priests. Nominally a girl has the right to refuse a suitor presented by her father, but actually she has not, so many ingenious methods of coercion are employed to enforce her obedience. I know a girl who was betrothed and after the ceremony ran away. She was apprehended, accused of breaking her vows, branded as an adulteress and executed. A strange law is one that permits a man to divorce his wife upon an impulse, all in one day, and won't let him reclaim her until she has married and become a widow again. If he is a rich man he may hire some man to marry her, live with her a day, and after 24 hours divorce her so that he can marry her again."

"A man may cast aside a wife on some pretext which he concocts and require her to go out and get him another wife. She does not dare get an unattractive one, either, but must bring in the youngest, most desirable she can find to share her home."

"I have known of but one romantic marriage in Persia. There is no possibility of the element of love entering in, for the boy and girl never are allowed to know one another. The one I mention was of two cousins who had grown up in the same household and fallen in love with each other."

"Hearts Are Tight."

"All women in Persia are miserable," said Mrs. Donaldson sorrowfully. "They have an expression, 'My heart is tight,' which, of course, means they are tight, typhoid and cholera."

mean their hearts are bursting. In my cases they were always remarking that I had a smiling face. They couldn't understand it and they would ask me to explain how it happened that my husband and I did not fight."

Worker Among Americans.

Mrs. Eli T. Allen, among the missionaries, has probably the most thrilling tale to tell. For seven years with her husband she has been at Urumia in West Persia, where their work was among nominal Christians, the Armenians, Nestorians, Syrians and Assyrians. During the war this part of the country was occupied first by the Russian army, then by the Turks, again by the Russians, and when the Russians disintegrated, the Moslems and native Christians armed themselves and rose against one another.

While the country was overrun with armies no crops were raised and the civil population was reduced to famine, at last actually to cannibalism. Mrs. Allen declares she saw with her own eyes evidences of cannibalism. On top of famine, of course, came epidemics—typhus, typhoid and cholera.

"DOLLAR DANCE" AT COLISEUM TONIGHT

Grand March and Community Sing on Program of Benefit for Children's Hospital.

EVERYTHING is in readiness for the big "Dollar Dance" at the Coliseum this evening and hundreds of people are keenly anticipating the particularly democratic and enjoyable function it promises to be. In attending one will have not only the assurance of an evening filled with unusual features, but at the same time will aid one of the most appealing charities of the city, the St. Louis Children's Hospital, which each year brings hundreds of young lives from the dark borderlands of pain and sorrow and helplessness and places them firmly on the path that leads to strong and useful careers.

The dance is announced as an informal affair with no restrictions as to the customary evening dress. The first feature of the evening will be community singing under the baton of Judge Charles Claffin Allen, assisted by George E. Knapp of the War Community Board; E. L. Cornburn, music supervisor of the public schools, and Herbert Cost.

Following the singing there will be a grand march that will formally open the dancing floor and will be led by members of the Hospital Board escorting the physicians and nurses of the hospital staff who have seen service in France. At midnight there will be a carnival diversion in which confetti, unconventional musical devices and other carnival attributes will be introduced. The "Cherry Garden" for those who do not care for the dance, has been established in one of the naves of the Coliseum which will be under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Smyth and a bevy of pretty girls. Mrs. Charles Cummings Collins will have charge of the refreshment pavilions with a corps of attractive helpers, and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg will be in charge of the bonbon and cigarette stands, assisted by a group of girls. The patronesses of the "Dollar Dance" include Misses Louis M. McCall, John Fowler, Louis La Beaume, H. J. Pettingill, George D. Mark-

ST. LOUISAN WINS
CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL

Clinton Indicates Great Daring on Part of Sergt. M. B. Ellis in Making Machine Gun Nests.

Sergt. Michael B. Ellis of C Company, Twenty-eighth Infantry, whose address appears in his citation as 121 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, will receive the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest military decoration bestowed by the United States Government. The citation describing his feat, or series of feats, states the utmost daring and constant work which an infantryman can undertake, the capture of machine gun nests.

One now living at the Collinsville avenue house known Ellis, but who lived there at one time, and who enlisted in the regular army in 1916. He formerly drove a team or a truck for various pack companies, and was employed as driver of an express company. John Ellis is his father.

He was cited by Gen. Pershing for "gallant and heroic gallantry and intrepidity above and beyond the call of duty in action with the enemy near Extermont, Oct. 5."

The text of the citation follows: "Operating far in advance of the first wave of his company (C Company, Twenty-eighth Infantry, First Division), voluntarily undertaking the most dangerous mission and single-handed attacking and reducing machine gun nests. Flanked on one side by the enemy, he killed two Germans and captured 17 others. Later, single-handed, advanced under heavy fire and captured 27 Germans, including two officers and six machine guns which were holding back his company. "Informed by the captured officers of four other machine gun nests, captured these, one after another, with their crews."

BERLIN CROWD LISTENS IN SILENCE TO PEACE SPEECHES

Scheidemann Says Conciliation Is Possible Only If Germany Is an Equal in Nations League.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Wednesday, May 21.—The majority Socialists held a demonstration of protest against the peace terms in the Wilhelmplatz today. The crowd, in contrast with earlier meetings, received the speeches of the leaders in frigid silence.

Philipp Scheidemann, the Chancellor, said he hoped, in the interest of humanity to attain a peace by understanding on the basis of the German counter proposals. While the German delegates at Versailles were working for this understanding, he added, it was the task of the Government to raise its voice on behalf of the conciliation, not the alienation, of peoples. A peace of conciliation only was possible if Germany is included as an equal in the league of nations. The league, he declared, was a necessity, but the Government was against the spirit of its present form which made the Germans the slaves of other nations. He concluded by calling for cheers for the league.

Herr Mueller, for the Independent Socialists, said the Socialists of all countries must regard peace as impossible under the present treaty. Frau Juchacz said that if the allied peace terms were carried out they would perpetuate a war of hunger.

The Independent Socialists held a demonstration in the Lustgarten.

By the Associated Press.
MANNHEIM, May 22.—Alarmed by the belief that Germany will not sign the peace treaty and that the allies will occupy Mannheim, citizens became panic-stricken today and stormed the Municipal Savings Bank. Many persons have fled from Mannheim.

Large crowds later gathered and held protest meetings and other demonstrations which added to the general confusion in the town. An official expression of regret has been issued in Berlin that the people of Mannheim "appear to have lost their heads."

AUTO TRUCK KILLS MAN; WRECKED AGAINST POLE

Pedestrian Is Run Down at 1 A. M. on Street Where There Is No Sidewalk.

John B. Luttig, 27 years old, of 5449 Claxton avenue, a brewery worker, was struck and killed by an automobile truck of the St. Louis Malleable Casting Co., 7701 Conduit avenue, when he was walking home in West Florissant avenue in the 4000 block at 1 a. m. today.

At the point where the accident occurred, policemen say, there are no sidewalks and pedestrians as well as vehicles use the street. After the accident the truck was wrecked against a trolley pole of the United Railways Co., but the driver, Ludwig W. Koch, 35 years old, 413 Blaise avenue, was uninjured.

Koch was arrested pending a coroner's inquest. He said he had been favoring a friend by using the truck to help move the latter's household effects, after having obtained permission from the firm to use the truck. Having moved the furniture, he had started west towards Calvary avenue to take a short cut to Broadway and thence home, and when on Florissant avenue was going about 20 miles an hour. On the down grade just west of Pope avenue, he said his headlights revealed Luttig walking in the roadway.

As he sounded his horn, he said, Luttig stepped from the south to the north side of the road, directly in the path of the machine. Koch said he applied the brakes and the truck swung sideways and skidded, the fender striking Luttig. In trying to regain control of the truck, Koch said, he ran into the trolley pole.

Died Almost Instantly.
Luttig was rushed to a city dispensary in another automobile. His skull was fractured and he had died almost instantly. He was a Belgian and lived with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Luttig, and several brothers.

His death brings the motor vehicle fatalities since Jan. 1 to 33, as compared with 37 for the same period last year.

CO-ORDINATED OPERATION OF WIRE SYSTEMS RECOMMENDED

Control Board Favors Wage Tribunal and Rate Fixing by Federal Commission.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 22.—Recommendations of the Wire-Control Board that legislation returning the telephone and telegraph systems of the country to private ownership provide co-ordinated operation of the various systems and fixing of rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission, were forwarded yesterday by Postmaster-General Burleson to the House Post-Office Committee.

The wire board's recommendations also include creation of a tribunal to hear all controversies between employers and employees, and that change in wage scales shall not become effective until submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, so that corresponding changes may be made in rates.

More return of the wires to their owners will not solve vexatious problems confronting the companies, Burleson said in his letter to Representative Moon of Tennessee. Extraordinary costs of operation and maintenance "fastened upon them as a result of war," the Postmaster-General said, "will continue for some time after control passes from the Government."

WELLSTON RESIDENT IS HELD ON DRAFT EVASION CHARGE

Thomas M. Barron of 1513 Valle avenue, Wellston, assistant superintendent of the Clover Leaf Casualty Co., in the Chemical Building, was arrested at his home last night by agents of the Department of Justice on a warrant charging evasion of the draft. It was charged that, June 5, 1917, Barron registered in Memphis and gave his age as 21, and that a few months later he came to St. Louis, registered again, and gave his age as 25.

Agents of the department said Barron told them that his correct age was 35 and that he registered as 21 in carrying out a deception he had begun when he married. He said he had thought his mother-in-law would not permit her daughter to marry him if she knew his correct age.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE

Meeting of 40 Discusses Affiliation With St. Louis League.

About 40 St. Louis County Democrats met at the Clayton Courthouse last night to consider plans for a reorganization of the party in the county and affiliation with the recently organized St. Louis Democratic League. Neither John E. Mooney nor William Daly, leaders of county Democratic factions, was present. The county normally has 12,000 Republican and 7000 Democratic votes.

Con. P. Curran, D. C. Taylor and David Griffith were appointed a committee to recommend nominations for offices in the proposed new organization, and John M. Atkinson, Thomas D. Cannon and O. E. Morton to choose a name for it. Another meeting will be held June 3.

PANAMA, Ok., May 22.—Mistaking each other for a burglar, Frank Massay, a merchant, and Ben Brashears, city marshal, opened fire on each other at Massay's store last night and Brashears was killed. They had been summoned to the store by a burglar alarm.

C. OF C. INDORSES ROAD BONDS

Committee Promotes Support to $60,000,000 Issue.

The Good Roads Committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce at a meeting yesterday put itself on record as favoring the proposed $60,000,000 State bond issue for road building and improvements, in the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Good Roads Committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce opposed the passage of the McCullough-Morgan bill as archaic and reactionary, now that it is a law, it is our purpose to actively aid the State Highway Commission in its most efficient execution, to the end that Missouri may secure the maximum mileage of hard-surfaced roads.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Good Roads Committee of the Chamber of Commerce hereby pledges its support to the proposed $60,000,000 road bond issue that has been submitted to the popular vote at the regular election in November, 1920."

Where Fatima Stands Today

A fact:

College men gave Fatima its start in life and that first impetus sent Fatima rolling up a mighty score. Today, not only is Fatima one of the five largest-selling brands in the country, but Fatima's position is unique among cigarettes. It is the only inexpensive cigarette that seems actually to be preferred to expensive cigarettes.

For example, Fatima outsells or closely rivals in sales even the highest-priced cigarettes at such places as

CONDUCTORS INDORSE PRINCIPLE OF LEAGUE

Also Pass Resolution Declaring
in Favor of Government Ownership of Railroads.

The Order of Railway Conductors, in convention at Arcadia Dance Hall, 3517 Olive street, yesterday afternoon unanimously adopted two resolutions indorsing the principle of the league of nations and Government ownership of railroads. The organization has 75,000 members in the United States and Canada.

The text of the league of nations resolution follows:

"Whereas, the liberty-loving people of America, on behalf of the oppressed and outraged peoples of the allied Powers, joined such peoples in the great European war on behalf of the protection and freedom of coming generations, and by their combined efforts succeeded in releasing civilization from the yoke of German militarism and in defeating the vainglorious autocrats of the Central Powers; therefore be it resolved, that the thirty-sixth session of the Grand Division of the Order of Railway Conductors of America do on record as indorsing the principle of the league of nations, believing further that such a principle is calculated to prevent any such further holocaust."

The resolution was presented by Thomas J. Hart of Cleveland, O., and was adopted by a rising vote.

An unusual feature of the convention was the visit of a committee of three from the Presbyterian General Assembly who addressed the conductors in a spirit of fraternal greeting. It was the first time churchmen had addressed a convention of the organization. The appearance of the Presbyterians followed a visit and talk to their assembly by Vice President Martin Carey of the conductors. The convention decided to continue the pension association of the order and also to establish a system of accident insurance.

The conductors and their wives will be guests of the Railroad Y. M. C. A. at a vaudeville performance and dance tonight at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Hut, Twentieth and Eugenia streets.

PARADE OF GERMAN TROOPS IN SILESIA RECALLS THE OLD DAYS

Revival of National Spirit Shown in Prussian-Like Display of Military Force.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 23.—The traveling correspondent of the Daily Mail, writing from Silesia on the revival of German national spirit, describes a parade of thousands of seasoned troops at Kattowitz.

"It was just that long, steady tramp of steel-helmeted Prussian infantry companies, interspersed with field guns and machine guns, also companies of Uhlans, with pennons flying, as in the days of the empire," he says. "Scores of children rode with the drivers on the horses, and the troops' horses and guns were festooned with flowers. These were the men who a few weeks ago refused to obey their officers and waved the red flag. They now are ready again to take up the battle of the fatherland."

"The parade was headed by Gen. Hofer, who led the first counter-attack against the British at Cambrai. The salute was taken by a short, thick set man in ready-made tweed suit to whom every eye was raised and every sword lifted. This was a blacksmith, Otto Horsing, who had made 13 trips to the United States as a fireman on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse and now is high commissioner for Upper Silesia. Horsing, who goes to Berlin frequently to confer with the Government, has restored order and work in the industrial region, organized an army and put Gen. Hofer at its head. Patrice Dumeny, one of the greatest rames of the old regime, works under him."

Special Friday and Saturday. Strong, heavy chicks, $2 and $2.25 per doz. St. Louis Seed Co., 411 Washington av.

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS IN ENGLAND ARE BEING RELEASED

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

LONDON, April 26.—Conscientious objectors in increasing numbers are being released from English prisons, but there are still about 500 Quakers and other objectors to military service who are working out hard-labor sentences.

More than 450 have been set free since April 8, when a War Office measure governing the release of objectors became effective. The order applies only to those who have served sentences aggregating in length two or more years. Among those given their liberty this month were Penner Brookway, formerly editor of the Labor Leader; Walter Ayles of Bristol, a member of the Executive Committee of the Independent Labor party, and other leaders of the "no-conscription" movement.

Altogether 6135 men have resisted the British military service acts and 6596 of them have been court-martialed. Since the armistice 240 men have been tried by military courts. Sixty-three objectors have died since being arrested, nine while in prison. One of the most prominent of the Quakers serving a prison sentence is E. D. Ludlam, who is well known for his researches in chemistry.

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and How It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Two Weeks' Time in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL
Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, it is free from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing bony hollows and angles by the soft, curved lines of health and beauty. There are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphorus than is contained in modern foods. That which is lacking is not only the organic phosphorus known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is indigestible and is sold by Judge & Dolph, Enderle Drug Store, Johnson Bros' Drug Co., Wolf-Wilson Drug Co., in St. Louis, and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a well-come transformation in the appearance, establishing an increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C. showed that two patients gained in weight 25 and 27 pounds respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphorus; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick

MEN AT HOSPITAL DENY ABUSING PRIVILEGES

Committee of Three Convalescent Soldiers Makes Reply to Commandant.

A committee of three soldiers, who are convalescing from wounds at General Hospital No. 40, 5300 Arsenal street, called at the Post-Dispatch yesterday to state in reply to Col. B. J. Edger Jr., commandant at the hospital, that the wounded men there have not been abusing any privileges extended to them, but that they have not been given them at Hospital No. 40. They also made the charge that the convalescents are regularly put on "kitchen police" details, relieving enlisted men attending at the hospital of washing dishes and mopping floors.

The men said the patients objected chiefly to the retention of their uniforms by the hospital during the time they are not out on passes, and for this reason many of them have had to attend dances, given for them, in pajamas and robes.

Statement by Commandant.

Col. Edger told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the uniforms were taken from the men to prevent their leaving the institution without leave, assuring that some of them had been leaving at will and returning when they pleased. He said it was necessary to the maintenance of proper discipline to end this practice.

"These men have no real basis for complaint," said Col. Edger. "We are doing all we can to help them get well, but they are not doing what they could to co-operate with us. They call our Medical Corps men pill-rollers and tin soldiers, and make other disparaging remarks to the men who did not get overseas."

"The good people who entertain these men with automobile rides and dances are well disposed, no doubt, but they are discriminating unfairly against our Medical Corps men in the hospital. These people never ask one of my men to go automobile riding. This has apparently had a bad effect on the wounded men, who imagine that as their civilian friends are so generously sympathetic, we should allow them to go and come as they please."

Discipline Necessary, He Says.
"These men are still soldiers and are subject to the discipline necessary to the successful operation of this hospital, all of which is designed for their own good. We want to see them contented, and are as eager as they to see them fully recover from their wounds."

The complaining men say Col. Edger has placed restrictions on the wounded officers at the hospital similar to those upon the wounded enlisted men, and that the wounded officers are allowed to retain their uniforms. They believe they are too closely confined by the pajamas and robes, when long walks and rides in the evenings would do more towards their recovery than remaining in the hospitals.

4000 MEN OF ILLINOIS GUARD DIVISION REACH HOME PORT

Units of 32d Division Among 5472 Troops Reaching New York on Transport.

Protests Against Jewish Demonstrations.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 23.—Declaring all reports of pogroms in Poland false, John F. Shulski, president of the National Polish Department of Agriculture, has urged President Wilson in a cablegram to take steps to curb the anti-Polish "demonstrations" which he said were being conducted by Jewish people of the United States and creating a "bitter racial antagonism between Jews and Polish citizens of the country."

SOME DEMANDS MORE THAN JUST, SAYS BERNSTEIN

Distrust of German Policy Inspired Peace Terms, Declares Noted Socialist Leader.

PARIS, May 22.—Eduard Bernstein, the German Social Democratic leader, declared in a recent speech at Lichtenberg that the German Government had not taken the proper course to secure approval of its foreign policy by the Socialists and that it could have obtained better terms of peace if it had acted differently.

The peace terms, Bernstein declared, were not entirely dictated by hatred and passion. "It appears more likely," he said, "that distrust of our policy inspired them. We should have broken more completely with the past, and Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau could have made a better choice of his associates on the peace commission."

"We must admit," added the speaker, "that we knowingly caused much damage and that some of the demands are more than just as reparation for what we have done."

To Wash Away Those Wrinkles and Crow's-feet

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple homemade wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered axolite in a half pint witch hazel—ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this and presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation! The remarkable astringent action of the axolite so tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added benefit may be expected with continued use. Use this once a day for awhile; it cannot injure the most delicate skin. The treatment itself leaves no trace—no one guesses the secret of your increasing youthful appearance.—ADV.

"Good deeds an' good tobacco need time to ripen. Yo' can't set the world right without a heap o' patience."

Friend—do you know—that tobacco really "ripens" after it is brought from the fields. Therefore, the method of "ripening" and "curing" tobacco has much to do with its pipe qualities.

Just note these VELVET facts:

First, only the choicest, silkiest leaves of Kentucky Burley are used for VELVET.

Second, these are stored away in wooden hogsheads for two years of patient ageing.

Third, this is the slow, expensive way, but the right way to take out the bite. Nature makes the tobacco mellow and "friendly" as no "short-cut" method can.

Now you know why it's mighty hard to carry a "grouch" and a pipe of friendly VELVET at the same time.

The Beauty of Coffee

Any rose is beautiful, but the American Beauty rose, with its superb bud, on a straight stem three feet long, is the Queen of them all.

G. Washington's Coffee is the American Beauty rose of the Coffee world.

It is the Queen of all Coffees.

It is served on the table of the most fastidious hostess, who wants to be sure that the very crown jewel of her dinner will not fail, that no careless cook can spoil it, and that her guests shall finish their dinner with the tang of excellence.

G. Washington's Coffee, that during the war could not be had by the public, because the Government took the entire output for the boys in the trenches, is again on sale.

GOAL CONSUMERS ADVISED TO PUT IN NEXT YEAR'S SUPPLY

Secretary of National Coal Association and Fuel Administration Give Warning to Users.

DEMAND NOW LOW, OUTPUT REDUCED

"Idle to Expect Fall in Prices," Says Official of Dealers' Organization; "Labor Is Too High."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 22.—Serious coal shortage is inevitable when cold weather comes again, if the output is not greatly increased in the very near future. Coal production has decreased woefully since the armistice, first, on account of the influenza epidemic, and then on account of lack of orders from consumers. This is the fuel situation in a nutshell as stated by prominent coal men and officials of the United States Fuel Administration.

The coal production during the first three months of the present year, according to the weekly reports of the Geographical Survey, was 17,000,000 tons of bituminous and 18,000,000 tons of anthracite. In round figures. During the same three months of last year the output of bituminous was about 126,000,000 tons and of anthracite 24,000,000 tons—and during that period of last year there was great curtailment on account of bad weather.

At the rate prevailing so far this year the production of both kinds of coal will be about 50,000,000 tons at the end of the year. This is less than the production in 1919. It is conservative to figure that on a normal peace basis the country's requirements this year will be at least 600,000,000 tons. The year 1918 can be considered a normal year, in coal production and consumption, and that year we produced and consumed more than 500,000,000 tons. In 1913 the amount was nearly 570,000,000 tons. Of course, war productions sent 1917 and 1918 above normal, but it is interesting to note that the figures for those years were 651,000,000 and 685,000,000, respectively.

As experts in coal matters figure it, the country is now "riding for a fall" to the tune of a hundred million tons shortage of coal next winter. There are two bare chances of escape from this:

First—If there is widespread idleness of industry and a consequent decrease in consumption, and also another winter which breaks records in mildness, then we may not suffer from lack of fuel.

Second—If consumers begin laying in next winter's supply now and thus keep the mines busy with orders, then production may begin to increase soon enough to prevent shortage.

"We view the present apathy of coal buyers as a public misfortune," said John D. Morrow, General Secretary of the National Coal Association, speaking for the coal operators. "Our employees need more work, as the mines are running on short time. In some fields they are not averaging more than two days' work per week. That imposes hardships on our employees and their families, which naturally breeds discontent. This short running time is due to the fact that the mines lack orders from coal consumers. We have no place to ship the coal, and therefore the mines are closed part of the time. Business men who are delaying the purchase of their year's coal supply because they expect lower prices are simply setting a trap for themselves. Eighty per cent of the cost of producing coal is labor cost, and we have a fixed wage scale made in agreement with the President, which does not permit us to reduce wages."

"Idle to Expect Fall in Prices."
"Therefore it is idle to expect any general decline in coal prices," he said.

Fuel Administrator Harry A. Garfield was not in the city, and in his absence no one would make an official statement. It was pointed out, however, that Dr. Garfield sent out warnings several weeks ago, that there were indications of a coal shortage next winter. It is the belief that he is not repeating these warnings because he does not wish to have himself placed in the light of being an alarmist. However, the Fuel Administration is practically out of business now and it is all ready to quit entirely as soon as peace is proclaimed.

It was asserted by Fuel Administration officials that conditions have not changed since Dr. Garfield issued his warnings several weeks ago. As a matter of fact, weekly reports show that production has fallen to even lower levels since that time. Consumers are using from stocks laid in last summer and fall, which were not used as rapidly as expected on account of the mild winter. Less than expected was used by the industries, on account of the ending of the war.

Anthracite Prices.
In one of the recent statements of the Fuel Administration it was said: "The best time to put in orders with the dealers for next winter's supply of coal is now, when it is plentiful, and the demand for it is light." Another statement said: "Consumers are advised that the best time to buy coal is when there is a lack of demand for it and that conditions prevail now."

As to what was normally expected regarding future prices of anthracite, before the present situation had developed, Fuel Administrator Garfield, on Jan. 31, at the time of the removal of the Government regulations on maximum prices of anthracite, said: "Had the active control over maximum prices on anthracite coal been continued, the cost examination shows that it would have been necessary, on the basis of the present wage scale, to raise these maximum prices possibly as much as 50 cents a ton above those last fixed by the Government, in order to prevent financial embarrassment and perhaps the closing of coal mines producing a substantial per cent of the necessary anthracite output. Such a curtailment of production would eventually result in the demand exceeding the supply to such an extent as to increase the prices much higher than they would be if the supply were continued."

The anthracite coal operators, a few weeks after this, announced an increase of 10 cents a ton per month, beginning May 1, until a total increase of 50 cents a ton is reached in the price. Many people were much perturbed by this increase, the reasons for which they have not heretofore heard.

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

Says Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotrol tablets. Take them as directed and let the pernicious habit quickly vanish. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting advertisement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the danger of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. DISCHARGED SERVICE MEN CAN BUY LIQUOR, SAYS U. S. OFFICIAL

District Attorney Holds Law Permits Sales to Men in Uniform.

United States District Attorney Hensley, in a letter to Excise Commissioner Lewis today, placed a construction on the law relating to the selling of liquor to men in the uniform of the army or navy. He holds the law permits sales to men in uniform if they have been discharged from service.

Hensley said that he desired to co-operate with the Excise Commissioner and other officers in the enforcement of Federal laws. He explained that the act of Congress under consideration, referred only to men in the military or naval service and who were in uniform, so that to constitute a violation of the Federal act the liquor must be sold to a man who had not been discharged.

Lewis said he would confer with members of the Board of Police Commissioners this afternoon and that after the conference he would issue instructions to saloonkeepers on the subject of sales of liquor to men in uniform.

6 MONTHS FOR FORMER ST. LOUIS RECTOR AND WOMAN COMPANION

Dr. C. A. Trautman and Miss Florence Clifford Sentenced in Kansas City; Give Appeal Bonds.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 23.—Dr. C. A. Trautman, or Trotman, 55 years old, and Miss Florence Clifford, 35, who have been living in an apartment at 4800 East Twenty-fourth street, and who have been known there as a married pair, were sentenced yesterday to six months each in jail, on testimony given by the young woman's mother and sister.

Mrs. Katherine Clifford and Miss Cora Clifford of St. Louis. They were released on appeal bonds of $1000 each.

Mrs. Clifford said Trautman had exercised a strange influence over her daughter, inducing her to leave their home in St. Louis last January. She said the physician had a wife and three grown daughters in St. Louis. They said he was known in St. Louis by the name of Trotman, but had changed his name to Trautman after coming to Kansas City. It also developed that he was a former minister of the Episcopal Church in St. Louis.

SEARCH FOR BOOKKEEPER AND $15,553 CONTINUES

Employee of General Paper Stock Co. Known to Have Spoken of Friends in Canada.

The police are still searching for Alfred T. Nightingale, 40 years old, of 3558 Castleman avenue, charged with embezzling $15,553 from the General Paper Stock Co., for which he had been a bookkeeper 10 years. The only known clue is that he often spoke of having friends in Canada and had expressed a desire to go there.

Nightingale's salary as bookkeeper was $125 a month. The full extent of discrepancies in his books has not been determined, as an audit is still under way.

So far as is known, Nightingale's family has learned nothing as to his movements since he left home last Monday night. At his home today it was said Mrs. Nightingale was too ill to see anyone who desired to question her.

GERMAN COMEDY IS STAGED

Presented in German Language in New York Without Disturbance.

NEW YORK, May 23.—"Heaven on Earth," a German comedy, was staged in the German language here last night without disturbance, although a small army of police, held in the neighborhood of the theater, confidently predicted that before it was over the audience and actors would be describing some of the off-stage "business" as "Die Heile auf Erden."

Rumors reaching the police from various army and navy centers throughout the city prompted inspectors to order out a heavy guard as the word was to the effect that the service men were contemplating "taking all the heaven out of it." About 150 military police were called oh. Not a single uniformed man appeared to molest the actors or the 800 persons who comprised the audience. "The Star-Spangled Banner," played by the orchestra as a "curtain raiser" was given scattered applause.

SWISS ASKED FOR ATTITUDE ON A MORE SEVERE BLOCKADE

Question Commented On in Press as Infringement of Rights of Small Nations.

By the Associated Press. BERNE, Switzerland, May 23.—It is confirmed that the allied and associated governments have addressed a question to the Swiss Government as to whether it would be willing and ready to take measures for a more severe blockade against Germany should circumstances require it. The publication has made a painful impression in Switzerland and is commented upon widely in the press as an infringement of the right and independence of small countries.

The New Gazette of Zurich, a newspaper with Ententeophile leanings, characterizes the note as "a smashing blow against self-determination by small nations" and a "bitter illustration of President Ador's declaration that Switzerland can enter the league of nations with a proud and erect head." Confidence in the league of nations, it is pointed out, is diminished in Switzerland generally.

Try Magnesia for Stomach Trouble

It Neutralizes the Stomach Acidity, Prevents Food Fermentation, Sour, Gassy Stomach and Acid Indigestion.

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion, you have already tried pepsin, bismuth, soda, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and you know these things will not cure your trouble. In some cases do not even give relief. But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic, just try the effect of a little hydrated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate, oxide or milk, but the pure hydrated magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder, or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and you will find a difference. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous stomach acid in the stomach which now causes you to feel full, flatulent, heartburn and the bitter, heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You will find that provided you take a little hydrated magnesia immediately after a meal you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and moreover, the continued use of the hydrated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.—ADT.

ARMENIAN REFUGEES FACING STARVATION

Cases of Cannibalism Reported in Caucasus Region, Hoover Is Told.

By the Associated Press.
CONSTANTINOPLE, May 23.—Starvation and misery prevail among Armenian refugees in the Caucasus region, according to a telegram sent to Herbert Hoover in Paris by Howard Heinz, American Food Commissioner for the Near East, who is in this city.

Heinz has returned from a trip of inspection in the Caucasus, on which he was accompanied by Walter George Smith of Philadelphia, former president of the American Bar Association and a commissioner of the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, which has charge of the greatest part of the relief work there.

Heinz says reports that some of the refugees, driven frantic by hunger and suffering, have resorted to cannibalism, are true in his opinion. He adds that food for 500,000 in that territory will be needed and by outside sources for another year.

"The lack of food is so serious," says the telegram, "that the women are forced to go into the fields and obtain grass roots, which they cook into a kind of broth and serve as boiled greens, occasionally getting a bit of rice to mix with it. This constitutes the principal diet of many."

"The little children, naturally, get the worst of this situation, because they cannot eat such material, and it is among the children that the death rate is the highest."

"It is difficult to make comparison as to the degree of destitution and distress in different districts or towns, but I think the worst situation that came to my knowledge was in Igdir, where there is a larger proportion of sickness and higher death rate than in either Erivan or Alexandropol."

Reports of Cannibalism.
"Regarding reports of cannibalism which have come out of this district from Coa, I have been very skeptical, my will to believe these reports to be true. I saw with my own eyes mutilated remains of corpses which have been exhumed from newly made graves."

"I did not see anybody who had actually witnessed the eating of human flesh, but there is so much circumstantial evidence that I personally came to believe it true."

"Typhus has been epidemic during the winter and has taken away thousands, but with the moderation of the weather it is now decreasing; but cholera is making its appearance and the outlook is threatening."

TWO GERMAN SKIPPERS ON IMPERATOR GLAD TO SEE U. S.

"Good to See My American Home Again," Says Capt. Kruse, Who Swept Mines During War.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 23.—On the bridge of the liner Imperator, when she arrived here yesterday, was her former commander, Commodore Thomas Kier. With him was Capt. Fritz Frederick Kruse, who formerly commanded the Cleveland. These officers, with the chief engineer, chief steward and 17 under-officers, were sent along to assist the Americans in handling the ship. The vessel was under command of Capt. John K. Robinson of the United States Navy.

Both Commodore Kier and Capt. Kruse appeared to be delighted to again come into an American port, even though it was not as in former days.

"It is certainly good to see my American home again," remarked Capt. Kruse. During the war Kruse was attached to the German naval reserve and put in most of his time mine sweeping in the North Sea. His boat was blown up by a mine on one occasion and he spent 20 minutes in the water before he was picked up by a German cruiser.

After the Imperator had left Brest it developed that there was one German on board besides the 20 men assigned to it. One of the sailors who helped take the vessel from Hamburg has relatives in America and he made the attempt to reach here by stowing away. He will be returned with the ship. While the Imperator will be altered so that a larger number of troops can be accommodated.

WOMEN SHOT BY BOLSHEVIKI

OMSK, Tuesday, May 13.—Before their flight from Sarapul, on the Kama, southwest of Perm, the Bolsheviks committed great excesses, shooting down the wives of officers and soldiers in the army of the Omsk Government. In many cases they did not spare even the children.

DR. HADLEY THINKS WAR WILL HELP EDUCATION

President of Yale Believes Reconstruction Will Bring More Thorough Methods.

Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale University, who is attending the meeting of the Associated Western Yale Clubs at the Hotel Statler, today gave to a Post-Dispatch reporter his views on reconstruction in its relationship to higher education. "The effect of reconstruction on higher education will be to make it in the first place more thorough," he said. "Our college boys all over the country showed up splendidly in the matter of loyalty and bravery, but we did not have anywhere near enough men who were thoroughly trained in any technical line. We had too few good chemists, too few good mechanical engineers and, in general, too few boys who had more than a superficial knowledge of science."

Educational Interest Increased. "Even in such simple things as arithmetic and trigonometry the product of our schools was poor. We were very short of men who could do the simple sums necessary to the modern artillery right. While we shall undoubtedly become more thorough as a result of the war I have no fear that our education will become too narrowly practical."

"Our interest in all educational questions has increased immensely. Our boys will want to study more history and study it better. They want to know more about international law and about comparative politics. Among the boys who have returned to college we already see a greatly increased interest in the history and literature of Europe, and this is going to reflect itself in the college education of the next decade."

Dr. Hadley will be the principal speaker at a banquet at the Statler tomorrow night. He will talk about what Yale is doing in the reconstruction period and how the university is Major-General William M. Wright, commander at different times of the Thirty-fifth and Eighty-ninth Divisions; Walter Camp and S. C. Bushnell.

Following a meeting of the Executive Committee this morning there was a business session, after which the members of the clubs were taken to Bevo Mill for luncheon. In the afternoon the members were scheduled to play golf at the different country clubs or drive through the West End and the country.

A dinner and entertainment will be given in the evening at Sunset Hill Country Club. "Stunt teams" representing clubs of several cities, are on the program and a play will be presented by the St. Louis association. Luncheon at the St. Louis Country Club will follow tomorrow morning's session, and in the afternoon there will be a baseball game between teams composed of former Yale players and between teams of St. Louisans and of visitors.

Officers of the associated clubs will be chosen tomorrow, and a place for the next meeting will be selected. Dr. and Mrs. Hadley are guests at the home of Harry B. Wallace, 4974 Pershing avenue, president of the St. Louis Yale Alumni Association.

SALESMAN ARRESTED IN TOLEDO ON CHARGE OF RAISING CHECK

Accused of Getting O. K. of Bank Official on $7 Paper and Making It $720 Before Cashing It.

Stanley Rybeck, 30 years old, a salesman, was arrested in Toledo, O., last night, after an information had been issued here charging him with having raised a $7 check to $720, and cashing it at the National Bank of Commerce Oct. 9, last.

Private detectives who trailed him notified policemen of his whereabouts. He is wanted also in Cleveland, O., on a similar charge, and will be turned over to the Cleveland police before being brought here.

According to the information given the police Rybeck, without hat or coat, representing that he worked on "Commission Row," walked into the office of the Barry Commission Co., 813 North Fourth street, last October and asked for a blank check. Miss Sybil Nance, cashier, gave him one of the firm's printed forms and he filled it out with a pencil for $7 and departed.

Later in the day he had the check cashed at the bank. He had first obtained the O. K. of one of the bank officials to the $7-check and raised it between the office and the cashier's window.

TWO SHOTS FIRED IN SWIFTLY MOVING AUTO ON SOUTH SIDE

Persons Near Park and Grand at 6:20 A. M. Say Driver Apparently Was Aimed At.

An automobile containing two men was proceeding west at high speed on Park avenue at Grand, at 6:20 a. m. today, when one man fired two shots, apparently at the driver, according to persons standing at that corner, whose attention was first directed to the car by its speed. The car was described as having wheels painted yellow. It did not stop, disappearing west in Park avenue without diminishing speed.

While the police were investigating this report, they learned that the drug store of J. T. Feager, 2354 Park avenue, had been robbed of cigars and cigarettes valued at $500, some time between midnight and 7 a. m., by burglars who forced an entrance through a rear window. It is not known that the robbery had any connection with the men in the automobile.

"When our baby was about four months old a small spot of eczema appeared on his back. It spread over his face and hands and became very much inflamed, and formed a scaly dry surface over his face. Apparently itched, for the child was very restless and the eruption was disfiguring. We decided to try Cuticura. About four cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Ointment healed him." $100,000 DRIVE BY
CONVENTIONS BUREAU

Effort to Be Made to Quadruple
Sum Now Used to Bring Gatherings Here.

Plans were announced yesterday to make St. Louis a greater convention city through the permanent financing and an enlargement of the activities of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, through a paratary campaign, which now is under way, and a drive during the first week in June for $100,000 annually for the Bureau.

The men back of the Bureau, with Carl F. G. Meyer, president of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., as their new president, point out a great opportunity in bringing more and more conventions to the city. The thousands of visitors that come with the conventions give St. Louisans an effective means of impressing upon the country at large the city's many excellencies. On the other side, visitors instinctively cause the residents of the city to put its best face forward, with the reaction that the citizens think more and more of their home and the constructive forces here are brought into greater play.

Since 1918 St. Louis has had 600 conventions, with an attendance of more than 300,000 and an expenditure of more than $15,000,000. This time covered the period of the war, when convention activities were much curtailed.

Five thousand national organizations hold annual conventions in the United States. Under Charles F. Hatfield as secretary and general manager, the Convention Bureau keeps in constant touch with more than 3000 of them. Under the new plan, it is expected that more than twice as many conventions with a proportionate increase in visitors and expenditures, will be brought here in a period equal to that covered by the last report.

The accomplishments of the bureau have been with a fund of $25,000 a year. Hindered for lack of money, the bureau has been forced to forego soliciting several important conventions simply because it did not have the funds to take care of them.

"We do not spend money entertaining convention visitors, but frequently we must provide a place for them to meet and do other things, as official representatives of the business interests, that require the expenditure of money," said Secretary Hatfield.

Aside from the appeal to civic pride to support the Convention Bureau, the conductors of the campaign are basing it on the pecuniary interests of the business men.

Have Prepared Statistics. They have prepared statistics to prove that it is to the financial interests of the hotel proprietors, the merchants, the bankers, and other business men to bring as many conventions to St. Louis as can be physically accommodated here. They set forth that it is an economical way to get new business.

St. Louis in the past has spent much less than many smaller cities on conventions. Its natural advantages in size, accommodations and entertainment and as a railroad and geographic center of the country have done much to overcome this deficiency. But the business men back of the bureau are convinced that the time has come to take up a quicker step and that sufficient funds must be secured to bring the bureau activities in line with the size and importance of St. Louis.

President Meyer has appointed this Finance Committee: Isaac A. Hedges, chairman; L. W. Childress, R. D. Corlett, Homer Bassford and Thomas W. Garland.

Commercial and industrial concerns are being grouped for solicitation for subscriptions. Committees are being organized to handle each line of business.

SOUTHEAST MISSOURI DRUMMERS ON ANNUAL THREE-DAY OUTING

White Suit and Children's Parade, Athletic Events and Ball on Today's Program.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., May 23.—The 23d annual three-day reunion of the Southeast Missouri Drummers' Association, which opened here yesterday, drew one of the largest crowds in years. This is the holiday season of Southeast Missouri. The drummers and their families are enjoying the outing. It is an unwritten rule among the drummers that "no noises like orders" be made or heard during these three days, for the drummers are trying to forget business for the time.

Many of the veterans of the association are on hand. They include Henry H. Rolfe, Will J. Riley, George E. Steinger, Billy Mueller, Ed Wacker and George Philip Weber. Today's program includes a white suit parade, children's parade, athletics events and a ball.

The business meeting tomorrow will conclude the program.

MORE BABIES TO BE WEIGHED

Fewer than 500 mothers had their babies weighed, measured and physically charted at the Baby Welfare clinics at the high schools last Saturday, according to the Baby Welfare Committee that has the campaign in charge.

A larger number is expected at the second day of the weighing and measuring operations at the same headquarters, the six high schools and the Glasgow grade school, tomorrow. Red Cross aids who have volunteered to assist in the campaign are asked to report at the offices of the Board of Religious Organizations in the Century Building today in order that they may be assigned for tomorrow.

Does the Treaty Violate President's Fourteen Points?

The latest and bitterest blow to German hopes, successfully disappointed in the Zeppelins, the submarines, and the Kaiser, is the discovery that President Wilson and the American people have not secured for Germany a "soft peace." German leaders and German papers angrily protest that America has "betrayed" the German people. President Ebert declares that in the Peace Treaty President Wilson "has deserted his fourteen points" while Ludendorff declares after reading the terms that "if this is peace, America can go to hell!"

In the leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, May 24th, German and American public opinion, as represented by the statements in the leading journals of both countries, is presented. Each of the fourteen points is carefully analyzed in its relation to the terms of the Peace Treaty so that the reader may readily understand just how much justification there is in Germany's protestations.

The Literary Digest An Ideal Mental Bracer

Even the wisest of us are more or less prone to get into grooves as regards our thinking on the great questions of the day. We tend to read the same papers, to listen to the views of the same people, to cling to the same ideas. A novel thought or a fresh conception on any subject of real importance to us finds many barriers of habit and personal bias to break down ere it can find lodgment in our minds. All this makes for stagnation and shuts out progress. What we need is a mental fillip, the stimulus of a quickening tone that shall remake our conceptions of things, readjust our conclusions, put sanity and vigor into our whole outlook upon life. Such a stimulus is waiting for you at every corner newsstand in the shape of THE LITERARY DIGEST, America's foremost news-magazine. Every week it offers you the world's comments on the world's affairs and the world's thought, freshly culled from the periodicals of every land and language, without any admixture of personal editorial preferences or interested interpretations. Read THE DIGEST today and week by week and keep yourself informed, up-to-date, mentally in touch with the live currents of universal progress.

Should a Young Man

Let the Image of His "Dream Girl" ? Blind Him to the Attainable "Real Girl"

Is Spring, When "a Young Man's Fancy Lightly Turns to Thoughts of Love"—A Wife Awaits Him in the World, Not in Dreamland—If He Wakes Up, He Can Find Her.

By Fay Stevenson.

There is a wonderful journey that the young man is going to take. It is an old journey over old roads—sometimes rocky, sometimes smooth—traveled for centuries and the tens of centuries by yearning youths and merry maidens, by middle-aged men and maturing matrons, by wistful widowers and will-o'-the-wisp widows, by belated bachelors and imperious spinsters.

It is called the Journey of Matrimony. And though so ancient that Adam and Eve jogged side by side along the good roads and its bad, it is still a new journey, a wonderful journey for the young man.

It will be the fateful journey of his life, and, in the day-dreaming philosophy of his optimistic youth, he conjures a mystic image—an image of brightness and glory—born of his longing for adventure in the luring plain or pretty, rustic beauties or city belles, tall or short or thick or thin—that matters not one whit—for he senses the big idea that they have the women of all ages, with the wisdom of the bellies of all courts, and with the scintillating acumen of an Amazonian army of query-quibbling spinsters—saves the subtlety and

There is Sadie Brown sitting on the front porch of her home in the quiet little cottage with the green blinds and the red chimneys. Or there is Molly Malloy leaning on her plump forearms on the window sill of the third story—up the first building on that busy street where the organ grinder and the dimpled Diddy Dimples dance daintily to the rhythmic flow of machine-made music.

It boots not which one he calls. Sadie's nose may be the suspicion of a pug, but her cheeks are pink, her heart is light and her laugh is infectious. Molly's hair may be dark, but her talk smacks of sound sense and there is joy in her being.

Both are ordinary, everyday girls of reality. They are not angels—with or without wings. They are about the same sort of girls as were the mothers of the young man who dream dreams and the visions of feminine perfection never attained in this world and, perhaps, never in the other.

So he hesitates in his imaginary wooing in Cloudland, takes the short line to Sadie, or the subway to Molly, has an exceedingly fair prospect of securing a good, common-sense traveling companion on the most important journey that a young man ever takes.

He blithely enters the home of Sadie or of Molly with his hat in one hand and a box of candy in the other. This is the preface to the story of his life. He finds that a girl is the stuff of which dreams are made. And in finding a girl he has taken the first step toward finding a real wife.

For the Amateur Gardener. Water still runs down hill. Practical level culture for most vegetables. Do not make a raised bed on which to plant, nor hill up much earth along the rows in cultivating. Use areas level water, not only because it flows away, but also because they are exposed to the drying action of the air. Sweet potatoes, however, are usually planted on a low, broad bed to insure a good bed of loose earth in which their roots may develop. Irish potatoes, too, are commonly hilled up in cultivation, but a hilling should be very slight in order to insure a good crop of some light to be expected.

THE MAGNIFICENT AMBERSONS

An Epic of the Rise of an American City.

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

Lucy looked down again, pathetically troubled. "Yes," she said. "You don't always care that much about me."

"I'm—yes—I'm afraid so, George. I never do change much about anything."

"Well, then, why in the world won't you drop the 'almost'?" Her distress increased. "Everything is—everything."

"What about 'everything'?" "Everything is so—so unsettled."

And at that he uttered an exclamation of impatience. "If you aren't the poorest girl! What is 'unsettled'?"

"Well for one thing," she said, unable to smile at his vehemence, "you haven't settled on anything to do. At least, if you have you've never spoken of it."

As she spoke, she gave him the quickest possible side glance of hopeful scrutiny; then looked away, not happily. Surprise and displeasure were intentionally visible upon the countenance of her companion; and he permitted a significant period of silence to elapse before making any response.

"Lucy," he said, finally, with cold dignity, "I should like to ask you a few questions."

"The first is: Haven't you perfectly well understood that I don't mean to go into business or adopt a profession?"

"I wasn't quite sure," she said gently. "I really didn't know—quite."

"Then of course it's time I did tell you. I never have been able to see any occasion for a man's going into trade, or being a lawyer, or any of those things if his position and family were such that he didn't need to. You know, yourself, there are a lot of people in the East—in the South, too, for that matter—that don't think we got any particular family or position or culture in this part of the country. I've met plenty of that kind of provincial snobs myself, and they're pretty galling."

Servant Problem Puzzles England

BECAUSE of the scarcity of servants, England is flooded with schemes for daily servants, and servants by the hour, says Ruth Clark, British Y. W. C. A. worker, in a letter received at headquarters of the National War Work Council of the Y. W. C. A. in New York.

These schemes have every element of success, Miss Clark says, "The only drawback is that girls cannot be found to take them up, whereas mistresses are clamoring at the doors. The problem is acute and a solution must be found which will tempt girls who have been in industry to return to domestic service. Conditions being offered now seem attractive enough, very fair and just, and proclaim a revolution in the status of this type of service. "The general unrest, which was inevitable, will, I believe, soon settle down. Meanwhile it is splendid fun to watch things grow happy again. In the old days London was a walking hospital for wounded soldiers, but now there are few to be seen. Hundreds are getting back into multifarious life. "All over the place houses are being painted. Next month the butter ration goes up to two ounces a week. Cream buns and fruit are reappearing in the shops. The newspapers have grown fat again and there is going to be a wonderful season."

George dropped her hand abruptly and anger narrowed his eyes. "No," she said, and gave him a sudden little look of renewed gaiety. "Let's let it stay 'almost.'"

"Because your father?" "Oh, because it's better."

George's voice shook. "Isn't it your father?" "It's his ideals I'm thinking of—yes."

Wonder Why All the Crooked Fighting Is Done Under Straight Queensberry Rules?

Browns in Fourth Place as Result of Attack on Walter Johnson in Last 2 Innings

Burke's Men Overcome Four-Run Lead by Scoring Five Runs on Six Hits in Seventh and Eighth Frames, After Being Held to Two Safeties in First Six.

A CONCENTRATED attack in the seventh and eighth innings of yesterday's contest against Walter Johnson, the "fireball king," considered the greatest twister in the American League, netted the Browns a 5-4 victory and their first objective—a position in the "Big Four."

The defeat of Johnson at the hands of the Burkes came as a complete surprise, as prior to the seventh Griffith's "ace" had set the Browns down with two singles, both of them of the infield variety by Joe Gedeon, a former member of the National title. Chances for a Brown victory seemed indeed remote in view of the fact that Johnson was traveling along with a four-run lead. But things started to happen in the seventh, and before the smoke had cleared three hits, a pass and an error by Foster had put three runs over the plate. The attack was renewed in the following round when three safeties with an error by Shanks thrown in produced two runs—enough to win the game and send the Burke clan into fourth place.

Tobin Starts Big Rally.

Johnny Tobin, the St. Louis boy, started the trouble for Johnson in the seventh when he beat out a perfectly placed bunt. George Sisler singled to right and Jacobson coaxed a pass. With the bases full, Sloan popped out, but Gerber was safe on Foster's boot and Tobin tallied. Here Jimmy Burke started to switch. He sent Ray Demmitt in to hit for Mayer. The pinch-batter pitched hard to center for a single, scoring Sisler and Jacobson. Severeid, pinching for Koob, brought the rally to a close by bounding into a double play.

In the following frame the heavy artillery of the Browns again opened up until after two batters had been retired. Austin singled for a starter. Gedeon was called out by Hildebrand, the umpire claiming he had attempted to hunt on the third strike, the ball rolling foul. Tobin sacrificed and Sisler was safe. Shanks' fumble, Jacobson came through with a crash to right, which counted Austin with the tying mark. The umpire claiming he had bouncer through the pitcher's box on which Sisler scored what proved the winning run.

The Browns' attack in these two frames was one of the greatest exhibitions seen at the local lot in many a day. It showed that the men of Burke are always on their toes and never quitting. Bob Quinn, business manager of the Browns, was highly elated following the victory. "Boys, when you spot Walter Johnson four runs and then beat him you have a regular ball club," he said. "And that's just what the Browns have resembled in the past 10 days, during which time they have garnered seven victories in eight starts. The fact that the Browns are getting hits when they are needed is shown by the fact that the seven victories, five of them have been earned by a one-run margin."

Yesterday's victory against the Nationals is credited to Allan Sorbhorn, who was sent to the hill in the final two rounds. It was the second time Sorbhorn has been used as a pinch pitcher since his recent recovery from an injured hand. Sorbhorn, while he was on duty, yielded one safety.

Gallia Is Pounded Hard. Bert Gallia, former National, tried his hand against his old pals yesterday, but was hammered hard. In the first round singles by Menosky, Judge and Rice produced a tally. After this the Chief set Griffith's men down without a great deal of trouble until the fifth. In this round Washington got busy. Menosky started with a hit. Tucker went out, but Judge singled. Rice forced Judge, but a double by Garrity counter Menosky and Rice while Garrity tallied on Shanks' hit.

Severeid Gets Into Game. One of the pleasing features connected with yesterday's game was the appearance of Hank Severeid in the lineup for the Browns. Severeid, who had been out since he had hit for Mayer in the seventh, appeared to have fully recovered from his recent injury. Billings also is in shape, which gives the Browns three regular catchers.

Wellman Down to Pitch. The third game of the series between the two clubs this afternoon probably will see two southpaws on hurling hill—Carl Wellman for the Browns and Harry Harper for the Nationals.

Sisler Is Hitting .325. George Sisler, the Browns' slugger, rapidly regaining his stride and now owns a .325 batting mark for the season. Burke's star has made 25 hits in 77 attempts.

Summa and Brown Star. Howard Summa and Bill Brown, two youngsters turned over to Mobile of the Southern League for further seasoning by the Cardinals, are going great guns at present. The past week Brown made eight hits in 20 attempts for an average of .400, while Summa, who is hitting in third place, had eight in 22 for a .364 mark. Jake Miller, the third Card sent to Mobile, hit .325.

Menze Is Hitting .350. Ted Menze, former McKinley High School star, is hitting .350 for Houston of the Texas League. Joe Doyle and Bob Lamore, former members of the Cardinals, have figures of .362 and .47, respectively. Doyle is being used as a leadoff batter, with Lamore next.

Big Fight Arena May Be Enlarged to Handle 60,000

Total Reservations to Present Time Said to Have Reached $270,000.

TOLEDO, O., May 23.—Ideal weather conditions greeted Jack Dempsey for his fourth day's training for his coming championship 12-round bout with Jess Willard here July 4.

Jack was up with the sun and after a long jaunt on the road he returned an immediate start in the ring for a short bout just to loosen up.

None of the men who have been engaged as Dempsey's sparring partners has put in an appearance as yet, but this does not worry either manager Jack Kearns or Jimmie Dwyer, who do not want the challenger to attempt anything in the nature of heavy work for the time being.

Arena May Be Enlarged. Tex Rickard returned from New York on the Twentieth Century yesterday. He was all smiles as he reported an immense sale of tickets for the bout in the East. The sale was so large, Rickard states, that before leaving New York he ordered four special trains from New York, one from Philadelphia, one from Boston, one from Buffalo and one from Cincinnati. The demand for tickets at headquarters continues brisk, about $270,000 in reservations having been made, and indications last night were that the arena would be enlarged to seat 60,000.

Chicago sports are hot after Rickard to land the referee job for Martin Delaney of the Chicago Athletic Association. A petition signed by members of the Chicago Athletic Club is in effect in half of the Chicago aspirant for the job.

Dave Fitzgerald, the noted Connecticut referee, who has been here, went to Chicago yesterday afternoon to visit a brother who has spent 10 years in the pen. He will return next week. His friends are confident he will land the job.

Rules Not Decided On. Rickard, when asked last night whether the promoters, fighters or referee would decide the conditions governing the actions of the men in the ring, said: "I have not yet decided that question, but shall take the matter up with Willard and Dempsey when both are on ground. I believe, however, that the conditions governing the actions of the men in the ring will be left to the fighters themselves."

SHEEPSHEAD BAY TRACK WILL BE REMODELED FOR AUTO RACES THIS YEAR NEW YORK, May 23.—The Sheepshead Bay track will be remodeled for the opening automobile racing season on June 14. James J. Johnston, the manager, has engaged an engineer and a speedway expert who will survey the two-mile board oval and report on the speed which will be required for the new season.

One plan already under consideration for an expenditure of $45,000, and the installation of a new method of banking the turns which would make the track from eight to ten seconds faster per mile. The final decision to increase the speed possibilities will be made only after careful complaints from three foreign drivers that the track is too slow. This, following the installation of a new banking system, will be made in the summer.

High-speed machines have outraced development in existing speedways, made it evident that radical changes must be made at the local track in time for the opening races.

Sullivan Changes Clancy-Chip Date Bout Will Be Held June 17, to Make Way for Rialto Club's Bout June 10.

Tommy Sullivan, matchmaker for the Future City Athletic Club, started this morning that he was not aware the Rialto A. C. had booked Billy Mike-Knockout Brennan for June 10 when he arranged a bout at the Coliseum for the same night between "Bud" Clancy and George Chip as opponents.

Sullivan added that he would change the date of the bout, even his good will in the matter, even though the chances were the later date would run into hot weather.

The 440 will offer a race of unusual interest between Jack Scholz, a local star, and a champion from the future city of the St. Louis A. A. None of the three has been booked this year and Boeddeker has competed against strong competition about Chicago as a Great Lakes runner.

St. L. A. A. Relay Entry Strong. The relay has but four entries, of which the three strongest are the St. Louis A. A. four, that of Washington, and the McKinley team. The McKinley entry, with Muhl, Bechtold, Boeddeker and Bert Cox, is favored to win. Except for Cox, who is a local star, the McKinley team is a youth of Washington University. Ward Names Same Athletics. Fred Ward, head of the Western District A. A. T., announced last night that he had forwarded the names of the same five men selected by Scholz to represent the Western District at the trials.

Ward was in doubt as to Scholz, and wired to National A. A. U. headquarters to find out if any man were eligible. He has as yet received no reply. A news item published several days ago stated that many men were ineligible, if that is the case, Ward will also mention Francis Stephens of this city as a member of the swimming squad.

A freshman at Washington University, will compete in the municipal meet as unattached. Rutherford of Washington sponsored his unattached entry, but he was not accepted under the Washington list as he is no longer a student. He will run as an entry without strings.

Muhl Gains Strength. It has been rumored for several weeks that Irwin Muhl, star dash man of the St. Louis A. A., has grown in size and lost his old-time durability, owing to his long employment. Latest reports from Paddy Boeddeker, who is Muhl's rival, state that Muhl is 20 pounds heavier than he was last year, and that he is stronger and runs in better time.

Deeds Must Run Unattached. Russell Deeds, a local discus star, will run unattached in the municipal meet until his enlistment in the navy.

Brook Is Back in Game. After being out of it for more than a week, Albert Brock has returned to the Kansas City lineup and is playing right field. He made only one hit in his first three games since getting back into the lineup. Johnny Brock hit for .663 in the four games he caught last week.

St. Louis A. A. Is Favored in Open Events, Tomorrow

Mahl, Boeddeker and Other Stars Appear Too Good for Municipal Rivals.

The municipal track and field meet scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock on Washington University Field has attracted approximately 325 aspiring athletes, whose entries are divided among the four classes decided upon by the committee in charge.

The junior events will include boys of 15 years and under, whose height is not over 60 inches. The intermediate events include all entries of 16 or under. The High School events, irrespective of age, will be competed for by High School students. The open races and field events have no entrance restrictions of any sort, except that professionals are barred.

Interest in the junior events is likely to center about competition between Yeatman and McKinley athletes. Coaches from both schools have made track work among 14-year-olds a special part this season. Gerald Marchison, a local star, who will run in the 15-year dash and take part in the broad and high jumps.

Yeatman Juniors Favored. Yeatman High School has a junior team that has not been beaten this year. Its star man is John Cox, a brother of the St. Louis A. A. runner, who will run in the 15-year dash and take part in the broad and high jumps.

Cleveland High also has an unusually strong junior team, with such youthful stars as Novak and Mueller in the 15-year dash and high jump. The 80 and 100 yard dashes will be won by John Harvey, the only Central High runner in intermediate competition, who is a member of the Missouri team entered in the Missouri championship meet, to be held in Chicago June 7.

Sylvester, who is now track captain at Missouri, is a cousin of Simpson, and is also a hurdler. Chuck Lewis, Missouri's all-around track star from Kansas City, is slated for the pentathlon. The Lewis is a good hurdler, a fair runner, and a strong man for the weights, high jump, pole vault and mile run. He has been the high point winner in every Valley meet the Tigers have entered in this year, and took third place in the pentathlon at the Penn Relays.

Bahlman Parker, also of Kansas City, is Schulte's candidate for middle distance honors. He can do the quarter mile in 20 seconds flat, and the mile in 2 minutes.
